Salt Creek Flood Basin Work To Begin Instantly

Gov. Richard Ogilvie announced yesterday that work would begin immediately on the multi-million-dollar flood control and water management program for the Salt Creek basin. Ogilvie announced at the same time the program would be expanded to include the southern part of the creek.

State funds are to be committed to the start of the project immediately, according to Illinois administration officials. They are hoping federal funds will also be forthcoming for the work.

Ogilvie's announcement came two days after the Northwest suburbs were hit by another round of heavy rains and flooding.

The program, known a the Upper Salt Creek Watershed Agreement calls for a series of dams and other water controls to be built along Salt Creek. Included is a dam that will form a 600-acre lake in the Ned Brown Forest Preserve in Elk Grove Township.

WORK IS TO begin immediately on the Ned Brown retention lake, according to John Guillou, chief engineer of the Illinois Division of Waterways.

Construction of the retention basin would flood the area now occupied by the Elk Grove Mobile Home Park on Rte. 72. Guillou said that if federal funds are committed to the project, the trailer park would be moved, as originally planned. If no federal funds are available, the state will spend $200,000 to build a temporary retaining wall around the park.

He also said that without the federal funds the retention basin would be smaller than that called for in the original Upper Salt Creek plan.

Illinois officials had no figures yesterday on how much money the state is committing to the project. Fred Bird, the governor's press secretary said it was hoped the federal government had funds "tucked away somewhere" that could be used to help fund the project, however.

The chairman of the Upper Salt Creek Watershed Steering Committee, Tom Hamilton, expessed surprise at Ogilvie's statement: "I'm very concerned about what the plan is." He said he would withhold further comment until he learned more about the governor's plan.

IN HIS ANNOUNCEMENT, Ogilvie also said the plan would be expanded. Details of the expansion were not immediately released, although the cost of the expanded plan is expected to climb from $26.5 million to $30 million.

Prior to Ogilvie's announcement authorities had indicated the program would not start until next July at the earliest. That was the earliest federal funds could be committed, they said.

According to Hamilton federal funds for the project would come from the 1974 budget of the U.S. Soil and Conservation Service. That budget begins next July.

Thirteen local government agencies including several park districts and villages are involved in the project. Funding is coming from local as well as state and federal sources. The agreement signed by local and state agencies, was sent to Washington, D.C. earlier this week for federal approval.

AT LEAST SOMEBODY seems to be enjoying part of the results of this summer's record-breaking heavy rains. Along with flooded streets and basements, the rains have created ponds, like this one, where a rowboat or even a rubber raft can make for an interesting way to spend an afternoon.

Downed Power Lines Leave 1,000 In Dark

Black clouds and downed power lines left hundreds of school children and about 1,000 homes in the dark yesterday morning as rain continued to dominate this week's weather.

A mid-morning thunderstorm drenched both Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg for about 1½ hours, but no flooding reports were received by police in either community.

Classes in three schools went on in the dark for about 45 minutes after lightening struck a cable pole leading to an underground line. Left without light in Schaumburg were Collins School, 407 S. Summit Dr.; Hale School, 1300 W. Wise Rd., and Frost Junior High School, also on West Wise Road.

Telephone lines at the Hillcrest School, 201 Hillcrest Blvd., in Hoffman Estates were reported downed during the storm, disrupting phone service in that area.

In addition to disruptions at the schools, about 1,000 customers of Commonwealth Edison were also without power, said Jack Stevens, spokesman for the power company.

Large amounts of hail were reported in Hanover Park, but Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg observers did not report any in this area.

Model Apartment Damaged By Fire

Fire destroyed a model apartment and damaged office equipment Monday at the recently opened Barrington Lakes Apartments, 2200 Hassle Rd., Hoffman Estates.

Deputy Fire Chief Edward Kalasa said an apparently defective heater in a model apartment is believed to have started the fire which spread to the rest of the unit. The fire began about 9 a.m.

The model apartment was located in the complex's recreation building.

Kalasa estimated about $3,000 damage was done to the apartment and its content. No one was injured in the blaze.

He added the fire was not related to Sunday night's storm.

Not Even Weathermen Know For Sure About Rain

Monday morning, the James Pocztek family woke up to find a private lake in their backyard — for the third time in the last two weeks.

And Tom Smith went to work in hip boots for the fifth time this year.

They were among the thousands of Northwest suburbanites who are sure they have put up with more than their share of rain and floods in the last month.

They may be right. According to the U.S. National Weather Service, it has rained seven out of the last nine days. Only Sept. 15 and 16 were without rain. The latest storm brought the total rainfall to 24.73 inches recorded since May 1. This compares with 11.13 inches recorded for the same period last year.

SUNDAY'S RAIN WAS the third in a cycle of storms that have hit the Northwest suburbs in the last three weeks. On Aug. 25, the area was hit by the worst rainstorm in five years. Damage was estimated in the millions of dollars. Thousands of homes were flooded and streets and highways were rendered impassable. In the Northwest suburban area, reports from three and a half inches of rain in Hoffman Estates and four inches in Mount Prospect and five inches in parts of unincorporated Palatine. South Rolling Meadows, south Arlington Heights and Elk Grove Village had the worst of the flooding.

The second cycle of rain began Monday, Sept. 11, with rainfall measured at .10 inches. The cycle continued Tuesday with .14 inches; Wednesday, .52 inches and Thursday, .08 inches. Skies cleared on Friday and Saturday, but on Sunday, the rains hit again.

According to Joseph Fulkes, a meteoroligist at the National Weather Service, the continuing cycle of rain over the last three weeks has been caused by a frontal zone in the form of a storm area moving up through the north central part of the country. (a frontal zone, Fulkes said, is caused by a mass of warm, moist air meeting a mass of dry, cool air, triggering a thunderstorm.)

While the causes of the rainfall are easy to pinpoint, predictions about more rain aren't.

THE WEATHER Service four-day forecast predicts there will be cooler, less humid weather beginning tomorrow. Yet the Service's extended outlook for the Midwest say "excessive precipitation" can be expected for the next several weeks.

Meteorologist Fulkes said "The rain zone could persist or keep redeveloping. A weather situation of this type is characteristic of the season. But it's very likely to change as the season progresses. As the weather gets cooler, the zone could tend to be pushed further south."

Which only proves that not even the weathermen are sure about the weather.

Seek Rerouting Of Buses Leaving Conant

The mother of a Hoffman Estates elementary school child won a promise from Hoffman Estates Police Chief John O'Connell to seek a rerouting of buses leaving Conant High School, 700 E. Cougar Tr.

Mrs. Howard Turpin, 134 Carthage Ln., Monday night told the Hoffman Estates Village Board that buses leaving Conant High endanger the lives of children leaving Fairview Elementary School, 146 Arizona Blvd.

"Our children have to go to school each day not knowing if they will return," said Mrs. Turpin. She added the lives of her child and others attending Fairview "are in danger five days a week."

Fairview pupils are dismissed from class between 3:20 and 3:30 p.m., while Conant pupils are dismissed at 3:20 p.m., said Mrs. Turpin.

With the two schools sharing a dismissal time, buses from Conant are traveling residential streets at the same time youngsters are walking home from Fairview.

Mrs. Turpin cited figures she collected in a survey of the corner of Arizona and Ashland streets, where there is a stop sign on Ashland, and at Arizona and Roselle Road, where there is a stop sign on Arizona.

In the Arizona-Ashland survey, said Mrs. Turpin, she counted 10 buses and saw more cars than she could count, all coming from Conant.

"Not one bus or car stopped to let a single child cross the street," said Mrs. Turpin.

AT THE ARIZONA-Roselle intersection, whch was surveyed Sept. 15, there were 10 buses and 47 cars. This was a clear, sunny day, she said, and on a rainy day the number of vehicles would be higher, with the addition of parents picking up children from Fairview. The combination of so much traffic with elementary children walking creates chaos, she said, predicting "we will have a fatality."

Mrs. Turpin suggested the board pass an ordinance forcing Dist. 211 to reroute buses along Plum Grove Road to Higgins Road, which they could then follow to Roselle Road. A patrolman at the Higgins-Plum Grove intersection could insure safe entry by the buses, and keep delays in schedules to a minimum, she said.

Mrs. Turpin said she had attended Dist. 211 board meetings last spring, requesting voluntary rerouting, and was told the buses had to adhere to a schedule. The rerouting was not implemented.

O'Connell agreed to study the situation, and to ask Dist. 211 again to reroute the buses. Trustee Ed Hennessy, noting it would be impossible to prohibit only school traffic from using Ashland and Arizona, suggested after the village board meeting that a "no left turn" sign applicable to only certain hours of the day on Ashland at Arizona might be the solution.

This Morning In Brief

The World

A bomb-rigged parcel in a pile of letters of condolence on the Israeli Olympic tragedy exploded in the Israeli embassy in London, killing the agricultural attache, Ami Shachori, 44, and wounding the official who was to succeed him in a week. Adjacent Schaumburg Street Miffs Officials In Hoffman

Officials of Hoffman Estates are miffed that the Village of Schaumburg has connected a street in its community to a previously dead-ended street in Hoffman Estates.

The connection has been made at Osage Lane, and another is under construction at Milton Lane, reported Trustee Bruce Lind.

"It seems to be taking people for granted, and I for one refuse to be taken for granted by anyone," said Lind. He asked Village Atty. Edward Hofert to comment on the legality of the action and note if Schaumburg had violated any laws by not seeking permission before making the connection.

Building Commissioner Dan Murphy noted the areas around the two connections had been vacated, with title to the land being turned over to property owners on either side. But, said Murphy, the streets and potential extensions were not vacated. Therefore, Schaumburg apparently had not crossed private property, as had been suggested by Trustee Dyrle Rathman.

HOFERT ASKED TO meet with Lind and Murphy after the board session. In discussions then he said it appeared there was no legal violation and no legal requirement for one village to contact another before making such a connection.

But Lind said he was offended by Schaumburg's actions.

"The thing that upsets me the most is the complete lack of common courtesy by the Village of Schaumburg to the Village of Hoffman Estates. I would not put a gate to my neighbor's yard without informing him," said Lind.

Trustee William Cowin responded that Hoffman Estates had made the "gate" by not vacating the land, and Schaumburg was "just seeing to it that it is functional."

Hofert suggested the two villages should work together, to satisfy a "need for interrelation of streets."

"IT WOULD seem to me that two villages so close as Hoffman Estates and the Village of Schaumburg, having both municipal plans of interest to each other, should discuss a mutual thoroughfare plan," said Hofert.

Lind agreed to contact Schaumburg Engineer Joe Zgonina to try to set a meeting date.

The board also approved engineering plans for Phase I of the redevelopment of Hoffman Plaza, which already is under way. Public Works Supt. John Hossack said it had been believed the plans already were approved, but due to an oversight they were not. Also approved were engineering plans for the townhouse development by Kaufman and Broad in Barrington Square.

The board also authorized Streets Supt. Kenneth Dean to attend a management conference seminar Oct. 15-19 at the University of Illinois at Champaign, at a cost to the village not to exceed $250.

Daddy Did The Babysitting

GOP Auxiliary Hears Women's Libbers

by JERRY THOMAS

Who was babysitting Monday night as the Women's Auxiliary of the Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township listened to speakers from the National Organization for Women, a women's liberation group?

In most cases it was daddy.

The ROOST auxiliary invited the women's lib organization speakers to its first fall meeting in the home of Mrs. Scott MacEachron, Schaumburg.

Northwest suburban area NOW officers, Karen Revell, president, and Darlene Mehrer, vice president, gave a brief outline of NOW's goals and urged the women to support legislation that would guarantee women equal rights. If a woman chooses to be a homemaker she should be paid for her work they said.

THE NOW OFFICERS also said women are not inherently inferior beings but have been brainwashed through the ages by sexist education to accept servile roles in society.

They urged those present to develop themselves fully as human beings with equal rights. Miss Revell stressed that NOW is not concerned with placing men in the slave role women have held nor are its members looking for a reversal of man's and woman's role in life.

Miss Revell said that NOW maintains there is no separate man or woman role but that each person should be allowed to select a career or life style to most satisfy his or her needs.

She added that NOW is not attempting to downgrade the women's role as mother or homemaker but maintains women should be paid for their work since it allows the male of the family to work outside the home. "However some men might prefer to stay home and they should be allowed to," she added.

MAYBE IT WAS the thoughts of poppa staying home taking care of the kids that influenced the ROOST women's comments, but somehow no one made too big a complaint about their status in life.

Several of the women present, active in township politics, civic organizations and full-time working mothers, just sat and grinned when the NOW officers depicted the average women as a slave to the whims of her working husband.

One said in most of the families she knew it was the other way around, with the wife handling the paycheck and making all the decisions. She added that she herself worked and her husband and children shared the household chores.

Several women said they felt free to enjoy outside activities and participated in decisions with their husbands. They agreed it was a personal relationship that decided who's boss in a family.

IN ALL, IT SEEMED as if most of the women present felt pretty liberated and enjoyed their roles in the community or home.

However, most of them agreed with NOW's idea that women should be taught to cope with life.

The women all agreed women should get involved in politics.

However the reaction to NOW officers ideas that child care facilities for working mothers and payment for household duties should be given women was mixed.

When the NOW officers brought up the subject of divorce insurance it was first treated as a joke and described as a rather negative approach to marriage. But one woman commented that her grandma often told the story of how a small inheritance she received saved her marriage many times. It seems she invested the money in stocks in her own name and knowing that she had financial security always gave her an upper hand in arguments.

On Dean's List

An average of B or better is required for the honor.

You'll Be TOPS With Small Bottom

Area women who may be looking for compatriots in their battle against the waistline need look no further. A local chapter of Take Off Pounds Sensibly (TOPS) will be meeting each Thursday in Hoffman Estates.

The group, known as "Trim and Slim," previously met at Christ the King Church. This year for the first time the Hoffman Estates Park District will sponsor the group.

TOPS, open to women in both Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg, will now meet at 7:30 p.m. at the Vogelei Recreation Center, 650 W. Higgins Rd., Hoffman Estates.

Persons interested in more information about the group may call 529-2847 for details.

Dominick's Comes To Schaumburg

The grand opening Tuesday of a Dominick's Food Store at Golf and Roselle roads in Schaumburg marks the entrance of the firm's 46th store in the Chicago area.

The around-the-clock service store contains a selling area of 20,000 square feet and parking for more than 600 cars, Joseph Burkhardt, a company spokesman, said.

The store features a Neptune's Cove, where fresh fish, including crabs, are available daily. A tank containing live lobster and one with live rainbow trout allows customers to pick out the ones they want, he added.

Termed by Burkhardt as "one of the most complete food stores in the area," the new Dominick's carries 200 different cuts of meat every day.

A giant squeezer provides fresh orange juice every day, he said. Fruits and vegetables in and out of season are also available.

THE USUAL national brand products are on sale, as well as Dominick's brand, Heritage House. A Heinemann's Bakery also is on the premises.

The store is the 24th run by Dominick's to be open 24 hours a day. Eleven other Dominick's stores are open until midnight.

"We're testing the around-the-clock policy. It's done for the benefit of our customers, and it seems many like the policy. Airline stewardesses, nurses, doctors, and other hospital personnel have been very enthusiastic about the extra long hours," Burkhardt, said.

The new store, as he described, "is modern, beautifully decorated, with extra special wide aisles."

Mailing Of Park Brochures Late Due To Printing

Printing delays have hampered the Schaumburg Park District's efforts to distribute their fall program brochure to residents in the community.

Jeff Fox, the park district's superintendent of recreation, said the brochures, detailing the programs may be mailed later this week, if they are received from the printer.

Registration for the fall programs is scheduled to begin Monday for tiny tot and other programs, Fox said. Persons interested in obtaining information about the programs can call the park district at 894-4660.

Residents may also visit the district's office at 220 E. Weathersfield Way to examine a copy of the programs.

Fox said the park district regrets the brochures were not available in advance, but flooding damage to their printer's facilities forced the delays.

"This fall's activities offer a wide range of programs for all age groups in the district," Fox explained. He added that all types of special activities are planned.

Registration will be held next week. Preschool registration will be held from 9 a.m. until noon on Monday. Registration for all other programs will be held from 1 p.m. until 4 p.m. Monday and 9 a.m. until noon and 1 p.m. until 4 p.m. on Tuesday through Saturday.

Schaumburg Nixon Headquarters Opens

Now open and welcoming visitors is the Schaumburg Township Headquarters for the Illinois Committee for the Reelection of the President, 640 S. Roselle Rd., Schaumburg.

Managing the storefront headquarters in Weatherway Plaza is Mrs. Barbara MacEachron, 1336 Bladon Rd., Schaumburg. Township coordinator is Vernon Laubenstein, 125 S. Westover Ln., Schaumburg.

Volunteers for canvassing or telephone or hostess work may register in person at the headquarters, or via telephone. Telephone numbers are 894-4136 and 894-4137. Hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday.

Current efforts are being concentrated on canvassing the township for voter registration, said Mrs. MacEachron.

Area LWV Slates Meeting Tomorrow

The Provisional League of Women Voters of the Schaumburg-Hoffman Area will offer a one-night "refresher" on intricacies of U. S. Congress and representative government at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Meinecke Community Center, 200 E. Weathersfield Wy., Schaumburg.

Mrs. Thomas DuVal and Mrs. Walter Meyer, both veteran members of the Barrington LWV, will explain representative government.

Their presentation is designed to answer questions concerning workings of the seniority system, senate cloture rule, and how a bill becomes law.

They will also trace the past and present role LWV has played in the study of government emphasizing how members become involved in governmental process especially during an election year.

The meeting is open to all interested members of the community. For further information contact Mrs. Gay Yokley, membership chairman, 529-0953.

Wins Navy Award

Petty Officer 2C Paul C. Graessle, son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Graessle Jr., 420 Hawthorn Lane, Hoffman Estates, was awarded the Silver Dolphins of a qualified submariner during ceremonies aboard submarine USS Haddo, based at New London, Conn.

A 1965 graduate of Palatine High School, he attended the University of Illinois before joining the Navy in August, 1966.

Building Will Make Flooding Worse

by ANNE SLAVICEK

As the flood waters subside for the umpteenth time this summer, Northwest suburban residents have time to reflect on promises that as vacant land in the area is developed, the problem will become even more serious.

Just how much the building is contributing the flooding problem is the subject of a Metropolitan Sanitary District report released last week — a report that documents an enormous cost and places the blame squarely with local communities.

The MSD's engineering department keeps tabs on sewer permit applications it approves for each municipality.

Month by month, the district records how many permits are issued, what ef- the developments will have on population of the area, the number of acres of land made impervious by the new developments, and how much retention is provided.

DISTRICT ENGINEERS then determine how much retention is lacking to make up completely for the water that would have been absorbed by the vacant land.

On an over-all basis for the metropolitan area, there is a whopping deficiency of 35,079 acre-feet. (An acre-foot is a measure of volume equal to the amount of water that could be held in a basin one acre in size and one foot deep.)

The cost of providing the lacking retention on a basis of $5,500 for each acre foot is projected at $192,934,500.

The vast majority of the building without providing any retention to compensate occurred in the years before 1969, when 31,500 acre-feet of retention deficiencies were accumulated.

In 1969, 1970 and 1971, 3,544 more acre-feet were added.

So far this year, 35 acre-feet in retention deficiencies have been added to the total, despite new MSD regulations requiring developers to provide retention proportionate with the amount of land they make impervious.

THE MSD REPORT indicates that because of such additions to the retention deficiency, "the present flooding problem is increasing at the rate of approximately $10 million each year.

"New construction continues to compound the existing and already severe flooding conditions. Local communities and developers are failing to provide adequate storage for storm water at or near the site of the new developments and are continuing to rapidly discharge additional storm water flows into the drainage systems which are presently overloaded," the MSD report charges.

The report lays the blame for flooding directly on the shoulders of individual communities.

"The continued compounding of the flooding problem demonstrates the unwillingness of the local communities and developers to undertake, voluntarily, a flood control program to cope with the new problems being created . . . As these local problems become compounded, the solutions become more complex and far more costly and require involvement of metropolitan, state and federal agencies. Each of these could be avoided if the local communities would provide solutions in advance as a part of the local developmental act," the MSD engineer's report said.

FOR SOME Northwest suburban communities, the MSD figures show that the engineer's criticisms are deserved. For others that are requiring enough retention to compensate for the building, the harsh words seem inapplicable.

Communities in the Upper Salt Creek Basin, for example, provided enough retention despite new building so that they had not added to the retention deficiency between Jan. 1 and July 31 this year.

Parts of Arlington Heights, Elk Grove Village, Hoffman Estates, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Roselle, Schaumburg and unincorporated Palatine are located within the Upper Salt Creek Basin.

Although 63 sewer permits have been issued in the Upper Salt Creek Basin so far this year for the addition of 5,897 to the estimated propulation of the basin, the 53.8 acre-feet of retention provided compensated for the 172.8 acres of impervious land created by new construction.

The balance sheet for the Upper Des Plaines River Basin isn't quite as equal, however.

THE UPPER Des Plaines River Basin has a deficiency of 25.1 acre-feet for the first seven months of the year. Although 50.7 acre feet of storm water retention was provided in the basin, it is not adequate to meet requirements of the 299.4 impervious acres created by building within the basin.

There were 116 permits issued for building within the basin for an added population of 8,429 people.

The MSD estimates that the deficiency in the Upper Des Plaines River Basin created during the first seven months of 1972 will cost $138,050 to correct.

Communities either wholly or partially within the boundaries of the Upper Des Plaines River Basin include Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect, Prospect Heights, Rolling Meadows and Wheeling.

The Poplar Creek Basin, which includes Hoffman Estates and Streamwood, has no deficiency created by building this year. Within that basin there were 11 permits issued for an increased population of 370.

THE BUILDING within the Poplar Creek basin during the January to July period created 81.5 impervious acres but the 23.7 acre feet of retention that was provided more than met MSD requirements.

The Upper DuPage River Basin, which includes Bartlett, Hanover Park and Schaumburg, has a deficiency of 4.6 acre feet for the first seven months of the year. The MSD estimates that will cost $25,300 to correct. Although 4.4 acre-feet of storm water retention was provided, 9 correct proportion to the 36.1 impervious acres created by the 24 projects for which permits were issued. The population increase for that basin is 1,706.

The Lighter Side

by Dick West

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With a worldwide energy crisis rapidly developing, the discovery of new power sources has become one of mankind's most urgent projects.

For unless mankind comes up with something pretty quickly, mankind may soon find itself without enough current to run its electric toenail clippers and will have to go back to clipping its toenails by hand.

Dr. Edward E. David Jr., President Nixon's chief science adviser, told a congressional committee this week that nuclear power produced by the "fast breeder" technique is the most promising energy potential presently in sight.

Just how uranium atoms go about speeding up their breeding was not explained. But it appears that mankind may wind up with a bunch of X-rated power plants.

Presumably, the electricity they produce could only be sold to consenting adults.

BE THAT as it may, David said "imaginative research" may provide other alternatives in the years ahead. In that regard, an interview with actor Marlon Brando in the current issue of "Oui" magazine is instructive.

Brando revealed he had purchased a small island in the South Pacific near Tahiti with a view to using it for experiments with new power sources.

Among the possibilities, he said, is power generated by barnyard manure and bacteria.

Domestic animals will be kept on the island and "we will save all the wastes and make compost piles and use the methane gas coming off them for power," he explained.

Brando said he got the idea for this from a man who has a car that runs on chicken droppings.

As for bacteria power, he said you can "put two different kinds of bacteria in two small metal containers with an electric conduit between them and the unit generates enough power to light an ordinary household bulb."

I DON'T know if this is the type of "imaginative research" David had in mind but it certainly sounds more interesting than the breeding habits of uranium atoms.

Conceivably, it could open up a whole new field of energy sources, the supply of which would be far more plentiful than uranium. I refer to viruses.

If bacterial organisms can generate power, it is logical to assume that viruses can too. And the virus supply is virtually infinite.

My family alone has enough viral infections each winter to light every bulb in a city the size of Pocatello, Idaho pop. 26,131.

With viral power, mankind can forget about coal, oil, fast breeding atoms and other conventional power sources. One good Asian flu epidemic would electrify the world for weeks.

The Jewish Festival Of Sukkot Slated

The harvest festival of Sukkot will begin Friday with a 7:30 p.m. service in Beth Tikvah Congregation, 275 Hillcrest Blvd., Hoffman Estates.

The early hour of the service will enable families to bring young children to worship together.

Traditionally, first grade children are formally introduced to their religious education with the Consecration ceremony, held at this Sukkot service.

The children climb the podium, stand before the Ark, and recite together the "Shema" prayer in Hebrew. In so doing they join with the countless generations before them in beginning their study of the Torah.

Sukkot services will continue Saturday at 10:30 a.m., and will allow all worshippers to enter into the Sukka. The Sukka is a booth built outdoors decorated with corn stalks, fruits, and vegetables recently harvested.

This is to remind everyone of the days when their ancestors were farmers in their ancient land and used these booths to protect their crops.

Neighborhood Nuisance

by Ed Landwehr

One of our jolly customers at Landwehr's Home Appliances, 1000 W. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights asked, "When are they going to invent a television set that interferes with its neighbor's power tools?"

Interference from innumerable electric gadgets that have worn motors, bad circuits and wiring are a plague on good TV reception. And even if you know the source of your neighborhood trouble, it's a delicate procedure in diplomacy to correct the situation. Of course, there's always the chance the neighbor likes the same programs you do and shuts off the infernal trouble. One lady borrowed her neighbor's vacuum cleaner and then had it serviced on the pretense she mishandled it.

An arbiter on this trouble we're not, but, if your TV set becomes recalcitrant, we'd like to negotiate it back into complacency for you. We have the necessary meters and tools that do it quickly. Phone 255-0700. You'll like our service.

Just Politics

by Bob Lahey

The Illinois State Chamber of Commerce has issued an alert to businessmen that "forces other than those concerned about businesses' ability to grow and prosper in Illinois have become the dominant force in Springfield."

The state chamber has issued an analysis of how state legislators voted on issues the chamber considers vital to business and concluded that a majority of members of both the State Senate and House of Representatives vote contrary to business interests most often.

The business organization found that 83 members of the House most often oppose state chamber positions, while only 55 members voted in accordance with them in the majority of cases. Thirty-eight members were described as "on the fence," voting for Chamber of Commerce positions 40-to-60 per cent of the time.

In the State Senate, the chamber found 27 members "favorable," 55 "unfavorable" and 4 "on the fence."

SEN. JOHN A. Graham, R-Barrington, was among the Senate leaders, in the eyes of the Chamber of Commerce, with a favorable voting record of approximately 85 per cent.

Among 11 incumbent members of the House from the Northwest suburbs seeking reelection either to the House or Senate, seven were rated favorable, three unfavorable and one "on the fence."

Among the legislative measures opposed by the chamber and passed by the legislature recently, and on which the chamber rated legislators were:

—A minimum wage of $1.60 per hour, and $1.25 per hour for persons under 19.

—Increases to employers of 28 per cent in workman's compensation and death benefits.

—Increased minimum salaries for school teachers.

—The "freedom of credit information" act, which would have required credit reporting agencies to inform consumers of credit checks on them.

AMONG MAJOR concerns of the chamber are workman's compensation rates, which it said have increased 79 per cent in 10 years and unemployment compensation rates, up 64 per cent, during a period when the cost of living rose by 37 per cent.

The chamber warned its members that proposals now before the state Legisalture would raise those costs by more than 50 per cent.

The chamber also warned that the legislature will act on proposals to retain personal property taxes for businesses and to increase the ratio of income taxes for business.

The chamber pointed out that it was not endorsing candidates for election, but said pointedly, "The business community needs to make certain that candidates who will listen, consider and are understanding of the problems of business and the importance of a favorable business climate are elected to the state legislature."

FOLLOWING ARE the approximate ratings given Northwest suburban legislators seeking reelection, with their party and the office they seek in parentheses:

Rep. Richard A. Walsh (R-5th, House), Rep. Bradley Glass (R-1st, Senate), Rep. David J. Regner (R-3rd, Senate), and Rep. John Friedland (R-2nd, House), all 95 per cent; Rep. Robert Juckett (R-4th, House), 85 per cent.

Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman, (R-4th, House), 75 per cent; Rep. Brian Duff, (R-1st, house), 65 per cent; Rep. Eugenia Chapman (D-3rd, House), 45 per cent.

Rep. Edward E. Bluthardt (R-5th, House), 35 per cent; Rep. Aaron Jaffe (D-4th, House), 15 per cent; and Rep. Harold Katz (D-1st, House), 10 per cent.

Education Today

by Wandalyn Rice

Two local school districts have found the road away from confrontation in the last couple of weeks.

Schaumburg Township Elementary Dist. 54 school board and teachers managed to avert a strike during the weekend by reaching tentative agreement on a new contract. The settlement came after the Schaumburg Education Association, representing the teachers, had set a date for a strike vote.

In High School Dist. 211, serving Palatine and Schaumburg townships, the board and teachers have not yet settled their contract, but they have made progress — more progress in the last few weeks than in a whole summer of bargaining.

In both districts the situations have been surprisingly similar. The boards and teachers' groups deadlocked mainly on whether to include working conditions, including guarantees on class size, teacher evaluation and workload, in the contracts.

In both districts the boards said they would never agree to some of the working conditions asked by the teachers.

THE DIST. 54 agreement, however, does contain provisions on class size, evaluation and some other working conditions. In Dist. 211 the board reevaluated its position and agreed to negotiate some of the working conditions after a meeting of teachers showed they supported their negotiators.

So far, language on evaluation, teacher transfer policy and operation of the curriculum planning committee have been agreed to by both sides.

The Dist. 54 settlement still requires formal approval by the teachers and board, expected tomorrow, in Dist. 211 the two sides are just beginning to discuss salaries and fringe benefits. The talks still could bog down on those issues.

However, looking at the two situations, it still seems like a good idea to look at the question of who won and who lost on the issue of working conditions.

And the answer seems to be: everybody won.

Certainly, in both districts the school boards made substantial concessions by agreeing to include in the contract some of those working conditions. But in neither case did the board capitulate, since the teachers also showed willingness to compromise.

The teachers certainly won some valuable points, of course, in the discussion of working conditions. And they also shared a victory with the board and the public — they avoided a strike, which generally leads to bitterness and division.

THE PUBLIC may be the biggest winner of all in both cases. There was no strike and the teachers and board, hopefully finding out what things each side believes are important through the bargaining process, now may be able to work together better for the benefit of the public and students.

In the past, school boards and teachers groups, you see, have not been real good at talking to each other. The two sides have regarded each other as enemies, with the board protecting its authority from encroachments by the teachers and the teachers trying to squeeze more out of the board.

By including working conditions, like evaluation and class size, in the contract, however, both sides just may find out their relationships change somewhat.

The board will have given up some autonomy, although it retains decision-making power, and the teachers groups may find themselves in the position of sharing some responsibility for implementing the new guarantees. As a result, the teachers may discover some new complexities about running the schools and the board may get some valuable insights because more people will be involved in decisions.

SURE, I suppose everyone can be sorry that it takes the threat of strike to get the two sides to agree, but that may no be bad, either.

In both districts the board and teachers have looked at the possible outcome if they can't get along. Maybe that will further help the process of communication.

If it does, everybody wins. Especially the public and the students who are served by the schools.

The lawsuit Rothchild vs. Bakalis, which may someday bring more money to Northwest suburban schools, was continued yesterday in U. S. District Court.

The next court date for the suit has been set for Oct. 2 by Judge James Parsons.

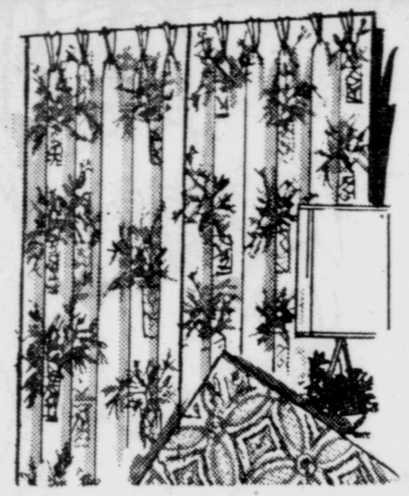

The suit, filed by the Edward Rothchild family and Lake County High School Dist. 113, challenges the constitutionality of the Illinois state school aid formula, which favors unit districts (which include kindergarten through 12th grade) over dual districts (which have elementary and high schools in separate systems).

Judge Parsons has continued the case several times since April while awaiting the findings of a task force on school finance set up by an appropriation from Illinois Legislature.

About 360 dual school districts, including local districts 15, 25, 62, 211 and 214, have joined the Rothchilds in the suit.

Moonlight may be romantic, but it isn't very revealing.

There's a lot to be said for moonlight —but your yard shouldn't have to depend on it. It's too easy to overlook the half-concealed tricycle on the edge of the front walk. Or the unexpected step in your backyard path. An electric pole lamp, controlled by a photoelectric cell, will light up automatically at dusk and bathe your sidewalk and drive in gentle but revealing light. Lighting at the curb or along the garden path can warn you of that unexpected step or unreeled hose. And an electric yard lamp controlled from both the house and the garage will illuminate the garage and outdoor storage area.

Make the outside of your home as safe and as cheerful as the inside—with electric yard lighting.

Public Deserves Candidate Pick

Legislation is needed to give Illinois voters a voice in picking their own candidates in cases where office-seekers are eliminated from the ballot between the primary and general elections.

This need is pointed up by the situation in the new 4th Legislative District (encompassing parts of Wheeling, Maine, Northfield and Niles townships). In races for the state Senate and the state House of Representatives, each party now has a candidate in the November election who was selected by a handful of party regulars after the candidates endorsed by voters in the April primary withdrew their names.

In the Senate race, Republican Township Committeeman John Nimrod of Niles Township replaced Sen. John W. (Bill) Carroll of Park Ridge on the ballot, following Carroll's announced retirement for health reasons.

In the House election, former Democratic representative Edward Warman stepped in for Democrat Aaron Brill, after Brill's curious decision that if he continued in the campaign he might win, and couldn't spare the time for the office.

Neither Carroll nor Brill was opposed for his party's nomination in the April primary. Carroll received the votes of 6,702 Republicans in the primary and a minimum of nearly 7,000 Democrats voted for Brill (with three possible votes from each voter, he had a cumulative total of 20,231).

After their names were take noff the ballot, the naming of replacement candidates was left in the hands of the township committeemen of the district. In both cases, therefore, it took the votes of only two committeemen, using their cumulative voting powers, to decide who would represent the party on the ticket.

The committeeman acted in accordance with the law in naming the substitute candidates. And that is precisely why the law should be changed.

The public should be given some opportunity to influence the selection of the candidates, just as they have an opportunity to select candidates in the primary.

We suggest that the legislature require that replacement candidates be required to produce petitions bearing voters' signatures equal to a reasonable percentage of the signatures which the original candidates needed to be placed on the primary ballot — or perhaps a percentage of the vote received by the withdrawing candidate in the primary election.

Candidates securing the required petitions should then be examined by the committeemen who will appoint the substitute, and this examination should be conducted in a meeting open to all registered members of the party residing in the district.

It would be impractical to attempt special primary elections each time a candidate withdraws, and there seems to be no workable alternative to allowing the committeemen to appoint successor candidates.

Requiring petitions, however, would open the doors to potential candidates other than members of the inner circle of the party. Open examination of the candidates would provide the voters with some gauge of the standards by which the candidates were judged and the reasons for the decision of the committeemen.

Candidates who are nominated through the primary election process presumably feel some obligation to the voters who nominated them, if they succeed in winning the election. We wonder to whom candidates named by a handful of party leaders must owe their first loyalty.

Lighting Up Crime

If Paris is the "City of Light," Washington, D.C., is transforming itself into the "city of lights." By so doing, it may eventually become known not only as the capital of the nation but as a safe place to visit.

In recent years it has been common knowledge, to the disgrace of the country, that criminals plied their trade even under the shadow of the Capitol itself.

Not so well known is the fact that more recently, the crime rate has been slashed by an average of 30 per cent in high crime areas of the city, thanks to a government and citizen-supported campaign to improve street and highway lighting.

According to Jack Hartley, assistant director of Washington's Highway and Traffic Department, the campaign was begun some 20 months ago. At first it was confined to four selected high crime areas, including Capitol Hill, comprising an area of 120 blocks and a residential population of about 30,000.

To date, 8,000 sodium vapor lights have been installed in the originally designated areas and other high crime areas. At the completion of the current program, 40,000 of Washington's 60,000 lights will be converted to sodium vapor.

In addition to the 30 per cent reduction in crime, the city fathers are happy to report that of the more than 17 million tourists who visit Washington every year, a much greater percentage is utilizing the streets at night than in the past. On some once-dangerous streets, people have been observed sitting at tables under the new lamps playing card games on a pleasant summer evening.

At least one "mess in Washington" is being cleaned up.

Malathion: 'Safe, Effective'

We have received a clipping from the Herald for July 27, which contains the statement, "the active ingredient in the spray is malathion, an organophosphate which has replaced DDT in some uses because it is less persistent but unfortunately is extremely toxic."

The contention that malathion is more toxic than DDT is not true. Malathion is less toxic both orally and dermally according to T. B. Gaines in a report on the acute toxicity of pesticides appearing in the Journal of Toxicology and Applied Pharmacology, 1969.

Malathon has been used for insect control for 20 years and for mosquito control since 1956. During that time it has been repeatedly tested for safety and effectiveness. The charge that no one knows what the long-term effects of continued use would be applies to all human activity, not just mosquito control.

You have to use available scientific evidence to make reasonable judgments on the effects of continued use. The scientific literature contains a great deal of information on the safety of malathion to humans and other mammals.

The safety of malathion to humans has been demonstrated in studies conducted by the United States Public Health Service, the United States Department of Agriculture, numerous university scientists, and others. The World Health Organizaton recommends malathion as a replacement for DDT. As a further indication of its safety, some formulations are accepted by the Environmental Protection Agency for the control of body lice on humans as well as for use on domestic pets, livestock and poultry.

Studies include "Human Exposures in Populated Areas During Airplane Application of Malathion" by Paul E. Caplan, Dwight Culver, and William C. Thielen of the California Department of Public Health, A.M.A. Archives of Industrial Health, October 1956; "Safety of Malathion Dusting Powder for Louse Control" by Dr. W. J. Hayes, et al., U. S. Public Health Service, Bulletin Of The World Health Organization, 1960; "The Effect of Aerially Applied Malathion on an Urban Population" by Dr. Allan L. Gardner and Dr. Ronald E. Iverson, U. S. Public Health Service, Archives Of Environmental Health, June, 1968.

A recent study on the ecological effects of malathon is Wildlife Monograph No. 24, "The Ecology of a Small Forested Watershed Treated with the Insecticide Malation—S35" published in December, 1970, by the Wildlife Society in Washington, D. C.

We certainly do agree that anyone should avoid needless exposure to any chemical including many of the common household products which can probably be found in the kitchens of your readers.

Bus Driver Thanks Motorists

I've driven a private car in the Chicago area for several years, but this is the first year I've driven a school bus. I certainly didn't expect to find other drivers easy to get along with. I'm happily surprised to say I was wrong.

After three days of driving special education students to and from Cumberland School for United Motor Coach, I'd like to thank all the drivers in School District 63 for their splendid cooperation with the school buses. If anyone even thinks I might want to turn or slow down, he gives me plenty of room to do it. No one seems impatient with me.

The first morning I drove, I nearly cried from seeing so much kindness on the road. Now I'm getting used to it, but I'll never take it for granted.

Bible Reading Urged

The Roman Catholic Bible is a tremendous Book. Each Catholic, should study it daily and live by its standards. The average Catholic does very little, if any, Bible reading. He as a result, has misconceptions. Do you know the Douay Bible says: (1) Unless a man be born again, he can't enter Heaven, read John 3:3-18; 3:36; 11:25-27, Rom. 10:9,10. (2) Mary claims God as her savior, see Luke 1:45-49. (3) Christ is the priest, read Heb. 4:14-5:6; 7:24-8:1; 9:11-10:04. (4) Christ is the Mediator between God and man (1 Tim. 2:5). Since this is true, why confess to the earthly priest? (5) Christ is the only rock, the foundation. He is called the rock, at least 20 times. Some of the references are: 1 Cor. 3:11; 10:4, Psalms 17(18):1,2; 70(71):3; 88(89):27, 2 Sam. 22:2.3. Jesus himself, said he is the way to the Father (John 14:6). Is he a liar, or is he who he claimed to be? He can't be both.

The Public's Issue

Gary Armstrong Answers Critics

In late August, the village president of Buffalo Grove took a new job — and that new job resulted in a furor over a currently-popular topic, governmental ethics.

Gary Armstrong announced he was taking a job with the James Otis Development Co. of Northbrook, a firm which shortly before had been welcomed to Buffalo Grove to construct a 128-luxury complex.

The Herald editorially chastised Armstrong for what in our view was a conflict of interest (we did not charge Armstrong with doing anything illegal in taking the position).

Now, Armstrong replies to our editorial — in order to allow the public to hear his side of the question. And that's the point of "The Public's Issue" — to air all sides of controversial and interesting issues.

by GARY ARMSTRONG
Buffalo Grove Village President

I would appreciate the opportunity to reply to the Herald's editorial of September 1, "Armstrong Made the Wrong Decision." I do so with no particular hope of influencing the thinking of the editorial staff of the Herald. I believe your refusal, despite my request, to afford me the courtesy of discussing the matter prior to publication of that editorial, suggested rather strongly the closed state of your thinking. I do believe, however, that the people of Buffalo Grove, by contrast, are inclined toward basic fairness, and it is to them that I wish to address these brief remarks.

One year ago last April they honored me by electing me president of our village. During that campaign many people worked hard, not only for our candidates but for others as well. Not only our own supporters, but to everyone in the village, we of the Buffalo Grove Alliance slate pledged our best efforts toward forthright and responsive government.

I believe that we have kept that pledge. I will not here, attempt a recitation of the programs we have undertaken; they are a matter of public record, and are well known to the residents of the community, particularly to those who maintain an active interest in Village government. I am proud of the record we have made these past sixteen months and I believe the people of our Village share and reflect that sense of pride in Buffalo Grove.

I am aware that some people are disturbed that I have become associated with Jim Otis who is involved with a project within the village. These people include some whose opinions and judgment I value highly. I believe quite sincerely, however, that I can continue to serve the village effectively notwithstanding the change in my employment.

In its criticism of my decision, the Herald points out both that Otis Associates has a good reputation for quality work, and that it has no reason to question my integrity. These two points, the latter in particular, constitute, in my opinion, the crux of the matter. If a public official is disposed toward serving his own purpose in disregard of the public good, then the formality of his relationship with parties doing business with the governmental entity is unimportant; if his inclination is toward dishonesty, he will find a way to betray his trust. This goes to the character and integrity of the individual, and is not a by-product of his employment.

The Herald criticizes my announced willingness to abstain from discussions between the village and Otis. It contends I should participate in such discussions; and it suggests the board may want my opinion. It also suggests the possibility of a tie vote on the board.

The objection is somewhat hypothetical. It conjectures, first, that significant areas of negotiation may yet arise between the parties. They might, of course; but a detailed pre-annexation agreement has already been executed which likely anticipates most future areas of disagreement. Even if some such points were to arise, they would most probably be of relatively small import to the context of overall village problems likely to arise during the two and one half remaining years of my term.

Granting, however, the possibility of a tie vote on a matter involving Otis, or a desire by the board to know my opinion, my course in such an event would be clear: I would act in the best interests of the village, as I discerned them. My oath of office would take precedence if ever I were to be placed in a situation in which a conflict were to arise. I state this unhesitatingly and unequivocally.

The Herald also wonders whether other developers may feel upset that I am affiliated with a competitive developer. The Herald's concern for the feelings of developers is not, however, a luxury which I allow myself. My duty as village president is to be firm but fair with all parties who propose to do business with the village. This, too, is ultimately a question of integrity and good judgment. As long as I know, in my conscience, that I am treating everyone fairly, then quite frankly, the subjective state of mind of any particular developer is not a matter which much concerns me.

Similarly, the Herald wonders whether builders may not now swoop down upon Buffalo Grove since its President is "in the business." (This is not logically probable if your immediately preceding premise is valid, but this, I guess, is what is called "editorial license.") Actually your suggestion betrays a lack of sophistication. Developers, like newspapers, are profit-oriented; they go where they discern the opportunity to earn money. The issue is the expected success of their development, not the "9 to 5" occupation of the mayor. Here is where knowledgeability on the part of village government is absolutely critical.

The expertise, knowledge and experience in annexation, zoning, construction and other matters which I expect to develop will accrue to the benefit of Buffalo Grove. Because of the professional background in land development I expect to acquire, I will be better equipped to serve our village.

The people of Buffalo Grove are aware of the efforts our village government has been making in carrying out its programs. Perhaps the editors of the Herald, cozily ensconced in their offices in Arlington Heights, are not. To the editors of the Herald, I, therefore, repeat my offer to meet with you and discuss this, or any other topic concerning Buffalo Grove, that may interest you. In fact, I invite you to come to our village for such a discussion. Since you write about us, and make money here, you might actually enjoy seeing Buffalo Grove. And I assure you, the inference of your "cheap shot" cartoon notwithstanding, that when I am in my office in Village Hall, I wear only one hat.

Skepticism The Best Insurance Policy

by LEROY POPE
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Careers, Inc., an executive recruiting firm, once sent to major corporations resumes based on the qualifications of such famous and innovative men as J. B. Conant and Michael Faraday, but the names of the applicants were fictitious.

You guessed it. Not a single company wanted to hire one of these proven geniuses. Careers, Inc., concluded it is true that most corporate managements are frightened to death of truly creative persons — which may be why so many creative men are forced to go into business for themselves.

The Conference Board, an independent business research organization, said in a study made, it is partly because management is so afraid of the innovative individual that so many collective approaches to the problem of creativity have been attempted in industry. The study examines these collective approaches in detail.

THESE METHODS include the Synectics approach developed in the late 1950s by William J. Gordon of Arthur D. Little, Inc., "corporate think tanks," "encounter groups," "brainstorming sessions," innovation contests and organizational changes to establish a climate for creativity in the company.

But after years of such activity American business remains on the whole skeptical of its value, the Conference Board study says.

Since the team approach has been used with obvious success in solving defense problems and has achieved great success in such technically difficult areas as putting men on the moon, this has led to a belief that any problem can be solved that way no matter how much creativity it calls for.

But many top management people are disenchanted with the idea, the study says. These executives have concluded, while the team approach can produce desirable extensions of known technology, it doesn't produce real creativity.

ONE EXECUTIVE of a big food company said the whole team approach was a "waste of time." He said the team groups and the members of the think tanks turned out to be "largely self-serving," and incapable of original thinking."

So industry is forced to turn back to trying to identify and hire truly creative men who can come up with a continuous flow of original ideas.

That leads to another set of problems. The bread-and-butter executives don't like the innovative types. They claim too many of them are "corporate gypsies," utterly unwilling to assume responsibility and with no loyalty to anyone but themselves. Also, they expect to do nothing but spin off ideas — leaving all the donkey work and a lot of sophisticated engineering and marketing tasks as well to the plain Joe Blows who are climbing the company ladder.

"These creative characters are hard to motivate and keep to deadlines," is a typical complaint. "They just aren't business men."

But they're needed.

When you're offered a "specialty policy" by an insurance salesman, put on your skepticals and read the fine print carefully.

Put on spectacles, too, if you need them — but in any event don't neglect the skepticals. You'll find plenty in the fine print — and the large print, too — to be skeptical about.

How do you recognize a specialty policy? The subject has been treated at length in a law journal article by Spencer L. Kimball, a professor of law, and Jon S. Hanson, member of the Wisconsin bar. Their rule of thumb for recognizing the specialty policy:

"Characteristically, the sales presentation gives the prospect the impression that he is buying into a profitmaking opportunity, rather than merely purchasing insurance."

THE BASIC purpose of life insurance, of course, is to protect the wage earner's family against loss of income in the event of his death. When the sales pitch neglects that, and emphasizes "profit sharing," huge dividends, coupons that are "just like money," or other lures suggesting it's a money-making proposition — that's the mark of the specialty policy.

Even though you have your skepticals on, such policies are so craftily carpentered that you won't be able to see through the razzle-dazzle. The complicated tangle of options, special provisions and various gimmicks makes it almost impossible for anyone except a professional to compare the specialty policy with a conventional policy, in terms of cost and value.

Herbert S. Denenberg, Pennsylvania's insurance commissioner, earlier this year published a "Shopper's Guide to Life Insurance," which revealed that "costs of essentially similar life insurance policies may vary by as much as 170 per cent." But there was no way of comparing costs of what Denenberg prefers to call the "gimmick policies."

A separate section of the shopper's guide listed 10 companies selling such policies in the state, with the explanation: "Their confusing combinations of increasing and decreasing insurance with all sorts of options make it nearly impossible for the buyer to determine clearly just how much protection he is getting and how much he is paying for it."

AS IT TURNED out, the limelight of publicity is one thing the specialty or "gimmick policies" can't stand. Soon after the shopper's guide was published, six of the companies informed Denenberg they were withdrawing the objectionable policies, in his state. Three more bowed out last month, leaving only one company on the original list of 10 still brave enough to face Denenberg's relentless barrage of publicity.

The insurance laws of most states ban the sale of the various types of specialty policies that were devised in earlier decades — but the companies selling these "gimmick policies" can invent new gimmicks faster than the legislatures can pass laws. They're still being peddled in most states.

So the consumer is forced largely to depend, for gimmick detection, on himself. Just bear in mind that a life insurance policy isn't supposed to be a money-making scheme. If that's what the man suggests, hand him his hat and show him the door.

Kemperco Earnings Increase

Kemperco, Inc. reported record first half earnings of $8,287,000 on sales of $155,073,000 according to six month results released by James S. Kemper Jr., president.

Total earnings increased $1,235,000 or 17.5 per cent, while earnings per share increased to $1.65 from $1.57 or 5.1 per cent, reflecting the increased number of shares outstanding due to Kemperco's 500,000 share offering last fall. Total consolidated sales increased 14.6 per cent over a year ago.

Figures exclude realized capital gains equal to .01 cents a share in 1972 as opposed to realized capital losses of .01 cents for the same period in 1971.

According to Kemper, "Improvement in non-insurance subsidiary earnings more than compensated for the net effect of $1,052,000 or .21 cents a share due to reserves established to pay potential insured losses incurred from Hurricane Agnes — an abnormal occurrence for this time of the year."

Economy Fire & Casualty Company continued its sales growth with an increase of 23.8 per cent. Another subsidiary, Kemperco Re continued its fine growth and contributed .29 cents a share to Kemperco's earnings, an increase of 6 cents over the first six months of 1971.

Kemperco, Inc. is a publicly held company with 11 subsidiaries which operate in such fields as insurance, reinsurance, mutual funds, consumer finance, banking, real estate and safety consulting.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market has recently been depressed over the possibility of a "credit crunch" in 1973 as a result of the recent upward movement in short-term interest rates, Hornblower & Weeks-Hemphill, Noyes says. Other depressing factors on the DJIA have been the rise in the consumer price index, renewed inflation worries and election uncertainties. Nonetheless, Hornblower & Weeks says the market "will move higher," based on the strength of the economy.

From the technical standpoint, the market is trying to stabilize but is capable of sustaining a rally of trading proportions, E. F. Hutton says. However, the market must stop "ignoring favorable fundamental news and shake off its negative psychological attitude," Hutton says. The market should continue downward, but may show strength containing the slide downward, the firm concludes.

Several cyclical issues with some growth characteristics have been performing better recently, notes Reynolds Securities Inc.

This coincides with its recent observation that "the lightning of new buying interest will strike more of the cyclical companies."

While some cyclical issues will assuredly become the targets of tax selling before the year-end, many others seem to have emerged from the "technical woods" and with an upward revision of their relatively low P-E ratios should contribute more forcefully toward helping the Dow Jones industrials overcome 1,000 decisively and move into record high ground.

"Support in the event of a further September setback is apparent around 930-940. . .on the industrials," the firm says.

Casual Look Popular

Menswear Calms Down

by GENIE CAMPBELL

A new plateau, characterized by stability and practicality, has been reached in menswear.

This is not to imply that the male has lost his flair and whim for fashionable dress. What it does mean is that changes are a bit more discreet and the wild avant-garde styles that set off the male fashion revolution several seasons back have calmed down.

Classic and sophistication are terms that both men and women have applied to their wardrobes for this fall and winter.

The wider-lapel look is today's dominant fashion theme for men. And it is really nothing new. This concept, however, is being interpreted with minute style changes that are meant to strictly update the look and not outdate it. None of the changes made this year is so overpowering that a man's current wardrobe will be completely wiped out and stamped obsolete. Dash and color are evident, but not outlandish.

AND EVEN MORE important, "the one look and only one look" concentration of the past is over. There are no strict rules for men to follow. Today's man has a variety of clothing trends from which to choose depending upon his physique, lifestyle and naturally, his wallet.

General buying patterns do show, however, that casual and sporty dress is becoming much more prevalent.

Reflecting this casual mood is the country look that includes sport coats and pants in lots of patterns, lots of texture and in some cases, even lots of color.

Plaids are big fashion news in subtle to wild patterns (still tasteful) with authentic tartans receiving the most votes.

SPECIAL TRIMS like suede patches at the elbow or gun patches at the shoulder highlight many of the country sport coats.

Flairs will continue to be the most popular model in the "bottoms" category, but there will be ample straight-leg choices too. Knits, corduroys and brushed fabrics in plaids, checks, textured weaves, argyles and houndstooth make up the potpourri of fabric choices.

Also included within the casual dress circle is the layered look which has become just as relevant a trend for men as women. Fashion for autumn is being introduced in tiers.

Shirts will be topped with sweaters . . . turtlenecks, V-necks, sleeveless, crew necks, capped sleeve style, and vests . . . which in turn will be covered with jackets. You'll also see sweaters being increasingly worn this season with business suits.

MOST MANUFACTURERS have more or less standardized the cut of jackets after a few faddish seasons that saw everything from the Nehru jacket to the Edwardian look.

In suits and sport coats, the two-button closure predominates while a new trend to watch is the return of the three-button, fashionably updated with generous peak or notch lapels and broader pocket flaps. Cuts are broad-shouldered and tapered at the waist.

There is little to be seen of the double-breasted models except in outerwear where the double-breasted polo coat is receiving quite a bit of interest.

The wide-lapel look dominates the single-breasted dress toppers. Woven wools in plaids, stripes, checks and solids are being chosen most often for topcoats.

Shirts for fall are once again relying heavily on white but there is nothing plain or mundane about the new styles. White becomes the background for spritely patterns but even more impressive are the white-on-white satin stripes and lattice weaves.

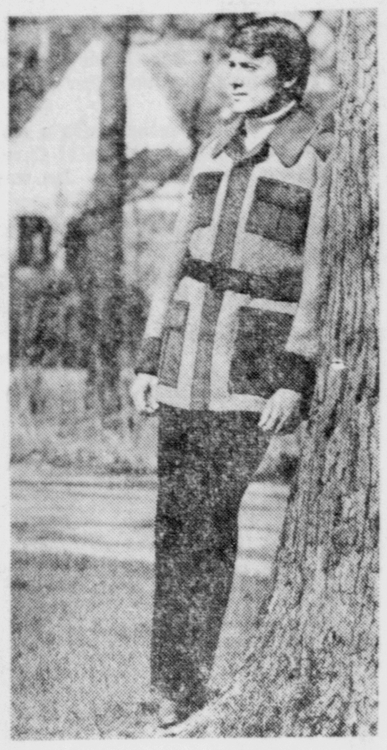

LADDER STRIPES, city block prints and geometrics are by far the newest and most popular treatments with textured tone-on-tone checks and plaids also holding their own.

There will be collar variety, too, in shirts as the button-down, a perfect look for country style dressing, comes back to compete with the long tapered collars.

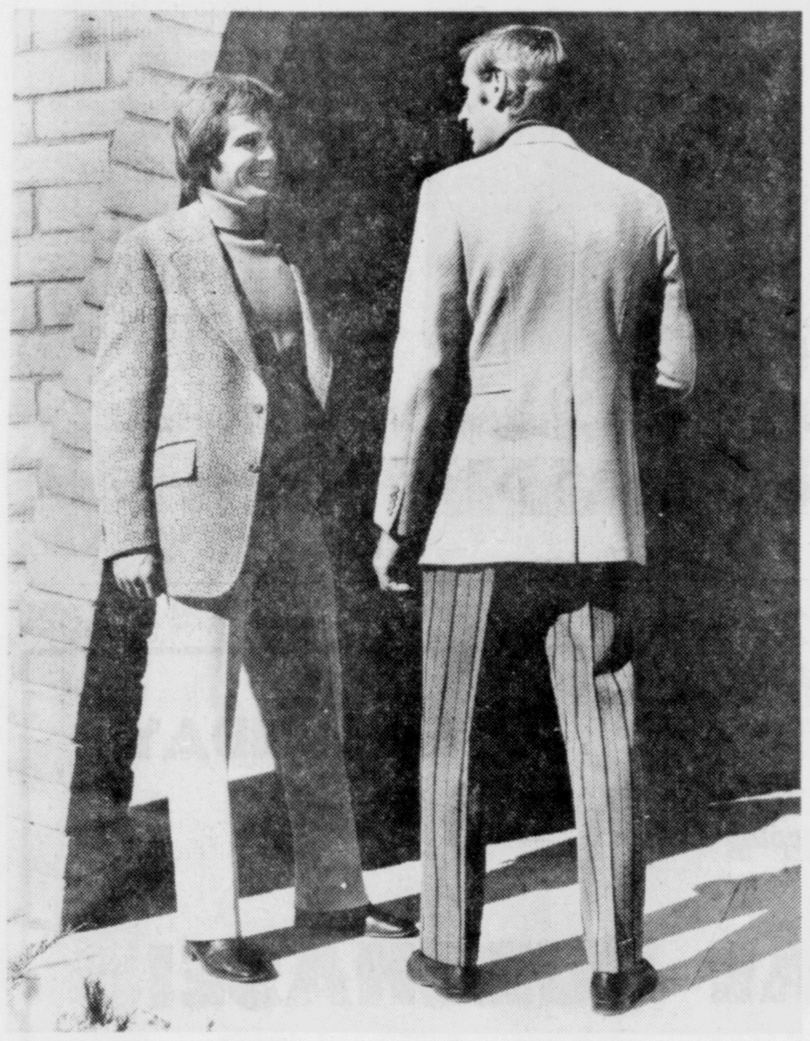

This fall and winter the male shopper will not have to worry about appearing too faddish or too conservative in his fashion choices. If he sticks with clean, well-tailored lines, and adds a plaid or two, he'll have it made not only this season but for several more to come.

PLAIDS ARE POPULAR. This tartan is the Prince Charles plaid, a mingling of five colors.

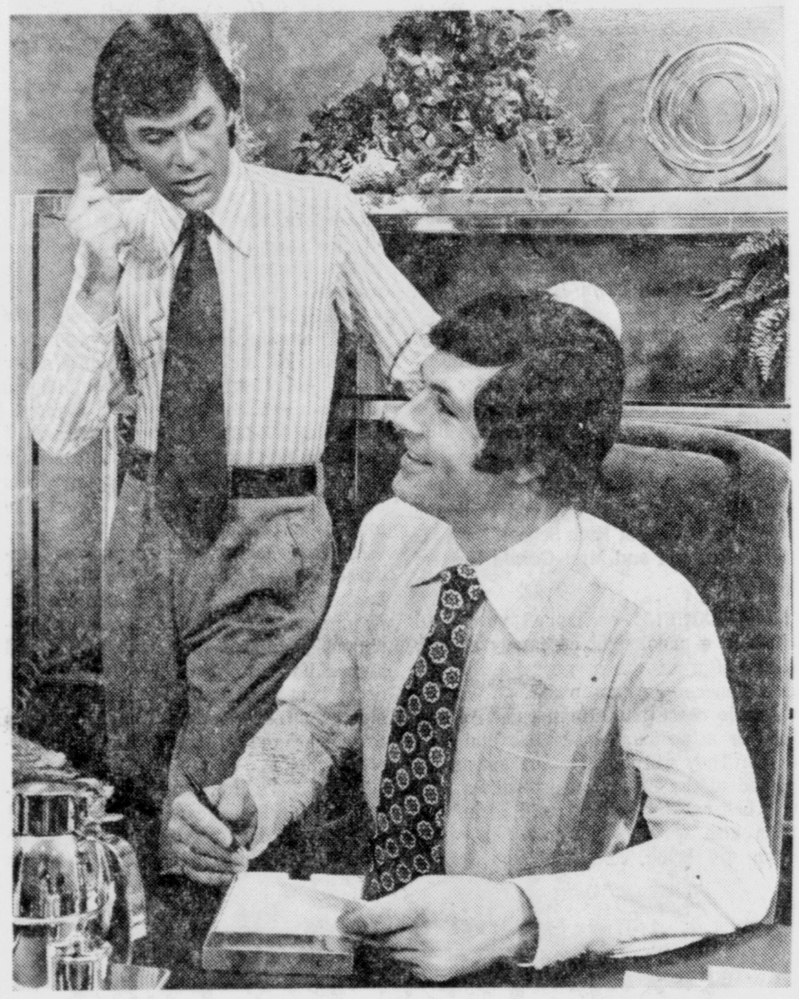

THE COUNTRY CASUAL look is emphasized by this wool check jacket with no-wale corduroy trim.

ONLY SUBTLE CHANGES in fabrics and style mark the new season's collections for men. A bit of suede cloth is used to trim the pockets of these sport coats. Both also have wide lapels.

NEW TOPPERS FOR FALL. The plaid trench coat has large military collar and pockets with decorative flaps and buttons. Single-breasted herringbone features back half-belt and center vent.

STRIPES IN MEN'S shirts are given the soft treatment in pastel shades upon white background. Pink and blue predominate in these two styles that have notched cuffs.

Speaking Of . . .

Southern Vacation Postscript

by KAY MARSH

A vacation is . . . educational and exhausting, exhilarating and expensive. It's a lot of big new experiences. But it's also a host of small details and incidents that somehow stand out more than the important events. Here, then, are a few "little things" that I'm packing away with all the other memories of this year's late-summer vacation: a 4300-mile trek, cum kids and car, to Florida and back.

I'll never forget the dog we saw riding a surfboard solo at Daytona Beach, and loving it. Or the hitchhiker in Indiana who was traveling with a dog almost as big as he was. And speaking of the Pet Set, we noticed lots of Mickey Mouse hair styles at Disney World. So many long-haired little girls had center-back parts and two high-swept pony tails, each twisted or braided into a mouse-like "ear."

I'll always remember, too, the self-styled Potty Painters of Vero Beach, Fla. At an elegant ocean front restaurant there, each door to a toilet cubicle in the ladies' restroom was painted in a different style. Discreetly hanging on the wall was a little oval-bordered plaque advertising the artists' specialty. Can't you just see the Potty Painters as guests on "What's My Line?"

HAPPINESS ON VACATION is a confirmed motel reservation and a completed interstate. It's also discovering a few soft drink machines in the South that still cost less than a quarter (one was only 15 cents).

Misery is finding yourself going West when you meant to go East on the Pennsylvania Turnpike, then driving an extra 30 miles to get yourself turned around — and paying a toll for the privilege. Or discovering that much of the country is still under construction, especially around the big cities. But at least some highway crews have eliminated many of those black and white striped barrels you used to have to slalom through. Now many use bright orange plastic barrels, weighted, that are easier to see and should be less lethal if you hit one.

Southern hospitality is still as advertised. We especially treasure the memory of the Virginia Park Service employe who welcomed us to his park with several pounds of home-grown tomatoes when we checked in around 11:30 p.m.

And it was fun to enjoy a "Newspaper Party" on Virginia's Northern Neck. You don't read the headlines; you eat on 'em: crabs, steamed to a spicy perfection. Then, after you've cracked every claw and dug out every morsel, you bundle up the whole mess to throw away.

FOOD IN FLORIDA is fine, too, from the free orange juice at hospitality centers to the 75-cent Submarine Sandwiches that fuel much of the budget crowd at Disney World. (The subs are even better heated, as in the snack bar at the Contemporary Resort Hotel.) But the nicest thing about food in Florida is that there's no state sales tax on it. Just think what that could do for your grocery budget!

Whatever happened to free maps at service stations? So many places are "fresh out." And too many restaurants no longer put free book matches on the table. For that matter, we never did find this year's Holiday Inn directory. (Maybe they're building inns faster than the printing presses can roll!)

Bumper stickers are still free, and help brighten a trip. I liked "Parents Are Relative" and "Gurus Have Sects Appeal." But my favorite, seen in Georgia, had "Jesus Christ" in that flowing, distinctive Coca-Cola script. Underneath came the kicker: "He's The Real Thing."

SIGNS OF THE TIMES cost nothing, either. It was fun to buy a body suit in "The Body Shop" of a Richmond, Va., department store. And my family could hardly keep me from bringing home an "Organic Mouse Trap." (Though even I hesitated when this turned out to be a kitten.) We did bring home a few souvenirs and gifts — such as some Rebel Yell bourbon, which is sold only below the Mason-Dixon line. I'm told this should be sold only to Southerners, but once the clerks heard my husband's Virginia accent nobody asked for a passport, visa or even a birth certificate.

But the best part of any trip is getting home again, just barely in time to catch the school bus the next morning at 8 a.m. Though, as the old saying goes, what you really need most after any vacation is a nice, long rest.

Vitamin Poisoning Rivals Aspirin As Peril To Kids

BY MONICA WILCH

Vitamin poisoning in children has increased by nearly 150 per cent in the past two years, according to the Illinois Pharmaceutical Association (IPA), which has issued a warning to parents to guard against this growing health threat.

Since the advent of children's vitamins, marketed with candy coatings and in the shapes of popular cartoon characters, vitamin overdoses resulting in toxic effects are rivaling aspirin poisoning as the No. 1 health threat to children, the organization reported.

"A child tends to view them (candy-coated and cartoon shaped vitamins) as toys or candy rather than as medication," Roger Cain, IPA executive director, said.

"Children should never be told that vitamins are like candy," he said. "They should be taught that vitamins, like any other medication, are dangerous unless used properly. And, above all, vitamins should always be kept out of the reach of children."

The Food and Drug Administration just passed regulations requiring all prescription medication containing aspirin or stimulants to be packaged in "child-proof" containers. But vitamins, which are not subject to this requirement, are often sold in bottles with lift-out tops or caps that simply twist off.

"To play it completely safe, I'd advise parents to purchase only conventional children's vitamins, to instruct their children on the hazards of taking too many vitamins, to allow the child to take their daily vitamins only under adult supervision and to store the vitamins in a place that is totally inaccessible to children," Cain said.

Earlier this summer The Herald reported growing concern over the potential hazards of candy vitamins and contacted the American Medical Association, which advised parents to consult their doctors about vitamin supplements. According to the AMA, children are especially susceptible to vitamin A intoxication, which is signalled by loss of appetite, weight loss, irritability, fissuring at the corners of the mouth and cracking and bleeding of the lips.

Early symptoms of vitamin D excess are nausea and diarrhea. Both A and D are easy to accumulate to excess since they are not excreted from the body, and only limited amounts can be used.

The Pharmaceutical Association has called for broader application of the child-proof packaging regulations, suggesting that they be applied to all prescription drugs.

Asked if the child-proof packaging ought also be required for vitamins, Cain said that the situation is more serious than packaging. He said the entire marketing concept of candy vitamins and animal-shaped vitamins should be eliminated because of the "great potential for children to transfer this idea to other medications."

Love Bloomed Aboard Ship

It was not the usual ocean voyage that brought together Elisabeth Sue Lyon of Rolling Meadows and Jan Faber of The Netherlands.

They met while Elisabeth was a student on World Campus Afloat of Chapman College in California and Jan was an officer aboard the Holland-America ship used by the university.

On Aug. 19 they became man and wife in the St. John United Church of Palatine. Now they have returned to Jan's homeland where they are living in Groningen, the town where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Faber, reside.

Mr. and Mrs. Jan Faber

Elisabeth and Jan chose a European style double ring ceremony for the 6 o'clock wedding service, performed by the Rev. Carl Zimmerman.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Lyon of 3205 California Ave., Rolling Meadows, designed and made her own gown as well as the dresses of her attendants and the ties worn by the men in the bridal party.

HER OWN DRESS was of ivory silk chiffon lined with ivory crepe. Venetian lace trimmed the accordion-pleated chiffon bodice and also defined the high waistline. The same lace decorated her wide-brimmed hat, and she carried a bouquet of roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

The bride's sister, Barbara Lyon of Greenwich, Conn., was maid of honor and Diane Hancock of New York and Maryanne Manca of Westport, Conn., the bridesmaids. The green on ivory lattice print of their gowns enclosed small flower buds and the colors of the dresses were repeated in their nosegay bouquets.

Steven Ely of Park Ridge was Jan's best man. Charles Vietry of Newport, R. I., and William Wilkin of Corapolis, Pa., seated the guests.

At the garden reception following the wedding, champagne made by the bride's father was served with the buffet dinner.

The couple spent their one-week honeymoon in northern Wisconsin.

Besides World Campus Afloat, Elisabeth attended California Western University at San Diego and Pratt Institute in Brooklyn, N. Y. Jan went to a training school for engineers in his home town of Groningen.

A Blind Date On Campus Led Them Up The Aisle

A blind date at Western Illinois University for Linda J. Reid and Dennis H. Klaja turned out to be a great success. The couple fell in love and were married Aug. 19 in St. Simon Episcopal Church, Arlington Heights.

Now they are back on the Macomb campus as man and wife, Linda in her junior year and Dennis a senior.

The bride and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Reid, are from Arlington Heights, living at 514 N. Chestnut. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Klaja of Fox River Grove.

LINDA CHOSE HER sister Susan as maid of honor and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Chris Gitzlaff of Prairie View, Wis., as bridesmaid. She had two other bridesmaids, Lindy Menza of Park Forest and Judy Thybony of Rolling Meadows.

The girls were dressed alike in light blue dotted swiss bordered with lace. They carried daisies and baby's breath in their bouquets.

Mark Herzog, Barrington, was best man. The bride's brothers, Kelley and Murray Reid, ushered, along with John Paice, Palatine, and Ade Merchent, Barrington.

AS THE BRIDE was given in marriage, she wore an ivory organza gown trimmed on the bodice with bands of lace and with lace edging the long sleeves and chapel hemline. An ivory lace headpiece held her elbow-length veil. She carried ivory roses, orchids and baby's breath.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Klaja

The newlyweds greeted 200 wedding guests at a reception at Arlington Legion Hall after the one o'clock ceremony. Then the couple drove east to Niagara Falls and Canada on their honeymoon.

The bride is a graduate of Arlington High School and the groom of Barrington High.

Hoffman Bride Is Back In College

Laurie Simonson of Hoffman Estates was married Aug. 26 in Prince of Peace Lutheran Church and has returned to MacMurray College in Jacksonville, Ill., as a bride.

She and her husband, Lewis Hart of Rockford, met on the MacMurray campus where she is now a senior majoring in deaf education. Lewis graduated this year and is teaching in the Buffalo, Ill., school district.

Laurie is the daughter of the Arthur Simonsons of 208 W. Concord and is a graduate of Conant High School. Lewis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hart of Durand, Ill.

THE COUPLE exchanged vows and rings in a candlelight ceremony at four in the afternoon, then greeted 200 guests at a dinner in the church hall.

Laurie chose an autumn color scheme for her attendants' ensembles and bouquets. They wore gold crepe gowns accented at the Empire waist with a narrow belt entwined with a gold chain. The girls also wore round gold pins, gifts from the bride, and gold and bronze flowers in their hair. Their bouquets were of gold and bronze mums and asters and orange straw flowers carried in baskets.

Mrs. Kathy Magin of Rockford, the bride's cousin, was her matron of honor. Bridesmaids included the bride's sister Lynn, Pam Getting of Arlington Heights and Fran Pearlman of Hoffman Estates.

THREE-YEAR-OLD Rebecca Wieest of Jacksonville was flower girl, attired in a gold and white checked gingham dress and carrying a basket of flowers to match the others.

An ivory organza gown lavishly embered with lace was Laurie's choice for her wedding day. The gown featured an Empire waist overlaid with rose lace appliques encrusted with seed pearls and aurora borealis. The bodice had a high neck, long puffed sleeves and was scalloped at the waistline. Rose appliques were scattered on the skirt and its cathedral train.

The bride's full-length veil was attached to a Juliet cap of lace and seed pearls, and her bouquet was of white feathered mums, stephanotis, baby's breath and monkey pine.

At the altar with the groom were John Wator of Chicago as best man and Dan Hart, his brother; Phil Magin, Rockford and Keith Martelli, Calumet City, as groomsmen.

The wedding guests were seated by the couple's brothers, Scott Simonson and Jeffrey Hart.

BPW Show Aids Woodstock Home

Reservations are now being taken for the third annual fashion show sponsored by the Barrington Area Business and Professional Woman's Club for the benefit of Woodstock Children's Home. The affair will be held Sunday, Oct. 8, in Barrington Hills Country Club beginning with a noon social hour, followed by brunch at 1.

Women's apparel will be from the Fashion Corner in Lake Zurich and men's apparel will be from Phillips Men's Wear, Barrington, with BPW member Evelyn Aikman and Chuck Wilkes doing the commentary.

Chairman of the show is Bernice Rogan, who states that proceeds of last year's show enabled the club to send all the children and staff of the Home to Camp Waubesa for one week this past summer.

Tickets are available by calling 381-3434.

Birth Notes

Stork Totes Big Load

Mr. Stork has been toting some extra large bundles lately. Last week we reported a 10 pound 14½ ouncer, and today we have learned of two more 10 pound plus babies, all born within the same week.

Nurses in Lutheran General Hospital where the stork delivered his big bundles, said both looked like six-week old infants, complete with the new longer hairdos.

Nicole Beth Strand, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted R. Strand, 106 S. Elm, Palatine, weighed 10 pounds 14 ounces when born Sept. 1. First child for the Strands, Nicole is the granddaughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Govantes, Elgin, Ted Strand Sr., Clam Lake, Wis., and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holsman, Whitehall, Ill.

Sharon Lynn Auck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley E. Auck, 2315 N. Huron St., Arlington Heights, weighed 10 pound 4 ounces. Her birth date was Sept. 8. Sharon has a brother, Scott, 6, and a sister, Sandy, 2. Grandparents are Dale Auck, Des Plaines, and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Titschinger, Aurora.

NORTHWEST COMMUNITY

Lori Jane Beckwith is the new granddaughter for Mr. and Mrs. Frank Benevich of Prospect Heights. Born July 11, the baby is the second child for Mr. and Mrs. William Bart Beckwith of Morton Grove. Ten-year-old Corey is the brother of the 8 pound 6½ ounce baby. Paternal grandparents are Mrs. Lill Wickham, Worth, Ill., and William Beckwith, Hickory Hills.

Jennifer Lee Keane, 7 pound 10½ ounce daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Kevin Keane, 505 N. Rohlwing Road, Palatine, was born Aug. 17. Other children in the family are Edward, 8, Patricia, 7, Kevin Andrew, 4, and Mary Beth, 2½. Mr. and Mrs. Michael Ryan, Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Keane, Co. Mayo, Ireland, are the grandparents of the children.

Ross Alan Patullo was a Sept. 9 arrival for Mr. and Mrs. Thomas N. Patullo, 1747 N. Wilshire Ave., Arlington Heights. The 8 pound 11½ ounce baby is a brother for 2-year-old Michael, and a grandson for Mr. and Mrs. James Hoppenyan and Mrs. Lorraine Patullo, all of Duluth, Minn.

Timothy Alan DeBrincat, born Sept. 14, is the third child for Mr. and Mrs. Ronald DeBrincat, 1417 Syracuse Lane, Schaumburg. John, 6, and Lisa, 4, are the brother and sister of the 7 pound 15 ounce baby. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John Shuba, Newton Falls, Ohio, and Mrs. Inez DeBrincat, Warren, Mich.

Derek Lee Dotson weighed 9 pounds when born Sept. 6 to Mr. and Mrs. Elmer I. Dotson, 430 W. Palatine Road, Palatine. James Paul, 4, and Kyle Scott, 2, are the brothers of the baby. Grandparents of the boys are the Earl Luebkes, Des Plaines, and the Elmer H. Dotsons, Palatine.

Jason Matthew Zemba is the new resident at 1375 Moon Lake Drive, Hoffman Estates. He was born Sept. 11, a 5 pound 13 ounce son for Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Zemba. Mr. and Mrs. Felix Dobner, Wauconda, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Zemba, Elk Grove, are the grandparents of Jason.

LUTHERAN GENERAL

Cindy Lawrence joins Eric, 3, and Tracy, 18 months, in the Richard John Lawrence home at 1015 Plum Grove Circle, Buffalo Grove. She was born Aug. 28 weighing 7 pounds 15 ounces. Grandparents of Cindy, her brother and sister are Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Smith, Woods Cross, Utah, and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel F. Lawrence, Bountiful, Utah.

Karlin Jeanne Sander, second daughter for Mr. and Mrs. Allen J. Sander, 802 E. Jules, Arlington Heights, was born Aug. 29 weighing 7 pounds 8 ounces. Grandparents of Karlin and her 4-year-old sister Kirsten are Mr. and Mrs. Alfred H. Sander, Arlington Heights, and Mrs. Mildred Hasto, Downers Grove.

Charles George Blake III is the name Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Blake Jr., 1534 W. Collins Circle, Elk Grove, have chosen for their first child. Born Aug. 31, the baby weighed 7 pounds 1½ ounces. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Middleton, Hoffman Estates, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Blake Sr., Lexington Fields, Palatine, are the grandparents of the baby.

Among the colorful crafts being created are sand candles, stuffed animals, pillows, bean bags, plaques, towels and macrame.

Sale hours will be from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Further details are available from Mrs. B. Stanton, 359-6158.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Adele Vincent serves such an unusual dinner dish the impulse to ask for the recipe is almost immediate. It's a bit complicated, but for those who like lamb and beans, worth the extra trouble. The night before rub a small leg or shoulder roast of lamb with salt, pour over it a little lemon juice and olive oil marinade and leave until next day.

Also soak ½ pound Northern beans overnight in lots of water; next day cook them in fresh salted water for 1½ hours. At the same time roast the lamb (in 350 to 375 degree oven) in a large earthenware dish along with its marinade, plus a little more oil, two garlic cloves, a bit of thyme and rosemary.

This started, it's time to make the bean sauce. Fry 2 large sliced Spanish onions in bacon fat until they begin to brown. Sprinkle with 1 tablespoon flour, stirring so it doesn't stick and burn, and after a minute or so, add a little salt, a small glass of red wine which should bubble up and evaporate.

Then stir in a little of the liquid the beans were cooked in and a small can of tomato paste. Allow to thicken, then add cooked beans and simmer gently. After lamb has roasted 1 hour, pour bean sauce around it, distributing it evenly, and cover with a sprinkling of fine bread crumbs. Cook ½ hour more. Serve garnished with fresh parsley.

Dear Dorothy: Getting ready to take a trip I always take along my last pair of glasses and the prescription for the new pair. Should anything happen to the pair I'm wearing, I'd be better off wearing the old pair than going without while the new prescription was being made. Also, I take along any medicines I may need as I don't believe any prescription by a doctor in one state will be honored by another state.—Georgia H.

Dear Dorothy: A clothes pin on a cabinet door holds a recipe at eye level most satisfactorily.—F.W.C.

Juniors Entertain 30 At Tea

Although the weather was gloomy, members of Mount Prospect Junior Woman's Club reported their recent membership tea was an unqualified success.

The tea was held at South Church with 30 guests and 38 members in attendance. Mrs. Raymond Crouch, Seventh District Junior Director spoke on the satisfaction and importance of the Seventh District's work and the role Mount Prospect Juniors play in it.

Mrs. William Gastineau, first vice president, introduced each of the department chairmen and each gave a brief summary of their department plans for the year. Department chairmen are: Mrs. Thomas Dittmer, American Services; Mrs. David Kennard, Fine Arts; Mrs. Kenneth Kapps, Gardening and Conservation; Mrs. Jerry Buche, Home Life; Mrs. Ronald Hazen, Senior Citizens; Mrs. Wes Pinchot, Stamps; Mrs. Robert Ferguson and Mrs. Bruce Longman, Youth.

Mrs. Charles Whittemore, membership chairman, and Mrs. Fred Carl, hospitality, planned the tea. Readers interested in more information about the Juniors may contact Mrs. Whittemore at 394-3294.

TABLES WILL GLOW with decorative candles when Holy Rosary Auxiliary, Knights of Columbus, holds its ninth annual fund raising card party at 8 p.m. next Tuesday in the K of C Hall, 15 N. Hickory, Arlington Heights. Mrs. Richard Ellensohn and Mrs. Richard Ragone are committee members working on the affair which is open to all area card buffs. Proceeds will again go to charity; last year's proceeds went to Santa Teresita, SPRED and Maryville. Mrs. Ellensohn, 253-7165 may be called for tickets.

A Fashion Sale By Area Cadettes

Cadette Troop 198, with members from Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights and Palatine, will be holding a fashion sale, "Fashions in Orbit," next Tuesday evening from 6 to 10 at Lutheran Church of the Cross, 2025 Goebbert Road, Arlington Heights.

Refreshments will be served, according to leaders of the group, Mrs. Thomas Wuerffel and Mrs. Richard Hale.

ORT Circus Trip For Kids, Folks

Far Acres ORT and all their friends are going to the circus. A trip to Ringling Bros., Barnum and Bailey Circus in Chicago is planned for Monday, Oct. 9, a school holiday. Parents and children will leave from the Buffalo Grove Mall at 1:15 for the afternoon performance.

Tickets are available to the public for the box office price of $5 and seats on the buses are $1 each. Those interested in attending may call 537-0748 or 537-4499.

Proceeds from this project will go to the ORT scholarship fund, which provides scholarships for teacher training in vocational education. The organization for Rehabilitation and Training maintains several teacher-training schools throughout the world.

10 New Courses At Greenerfields

Ten new courses, five new instructors and three new lecturers will be introduced this fall at Greenerfields Unlimited, the continuing education center for women in Northfield.

The new courses, for which students may now register, are Transactional Analysis, Rapid Reading, Women Writers, Election '72, Humanism-The Belief In Man, Joyce, Forster and Woolf, Autobiographical Fiction, Women's Perspectives, Theater Games Workshop and The Many Faces of Eve.

The Many Faces of Eve is a discussion-lecture series featuring seven authorities on the changing roles of woman and her options for fulfilling the new opportunities open to her. Dr. Helen Lopata, professor of sociology and head of the Center of Comparative Study of Social Roles, author of "Occupation Housewife," is one new lecturer and Ms. Jessie Potter, sex education consultant and staff member of Midwest Population Center is another.

TEACHERS ALSO joining Greenerfields this semester are Dr. Nancy Klahm Byram, psychologist; Harold J. Quigley, chairman of the Clergy Consultation Service and leader of the Ethical Humanist Society of Chicago; Marilyn Jacobson, teacher at Kendall College; Mary Alice Bird, co-ordinator of the North Shore Panel of American Women; and Jim Shiflet, director of the Community Arts Foundation and Dream Theater.

Continuing courses include Gestalt Through Creative Materials, Story Workshop, Illusion of Freedom, Yoga, Gestalt Workshop and Potential.

Weekend workshops, which are for men and women, will deal with humanistic psychology. They will explore human behavior and experience through Gestalt, transactional analysis and the National Training Laboratory approach which uses several methods. Mrs. Jane Levenberg, a founding fellow of the Gestalt Institute of Chicago, will lead the Gestalt Workshop.

Dr. Robert Brower, school administrator and private counselor who was trained at the National Training Laboratory in Bethel, Me., will lead the NTL weekend. Another new Greenerfield's teacher, Dr. Ted Novey, physical chemist currently studying for his masters degree in counseling psychology and a former Argonne Laboratory scientist, will lead the transactional analysis weekend.

GREENERFIELDS UNLIMITED, founded five years ago, is an informal school designed for women who want to continue their education without the pressures and tensions imposed by examinations, term papers and grades. Classes are informal. The setting is an apartment in Northfield, just off Edens Expressway, where coffee flows freely and the kitchen also serves as an office.

Students include housewives who want to expand their minds during their free daytime hours, women who want to develop intellectually and emotionally after their children have grown, and women who are alone and seek ways of broadening their interests and growing intellectually. "Many women have used Greenerfields as a stepping stone from the kitchen to college," said a spokesman.

Brochures and registration information are available from the school office by phoning 446-0525.

Distaffs Will Play Whoopee

There is a prize for everyone attending the Countryside YMCA Distaffs Whoopee Party Thursday, Sept. 28 at 8 p.m. in the Palatine Savings and Loan. Whoopee is a game of cards and dice that anyone can learn and in which everyone wins a prize.

This social night will be the Distaffs' first meeting of the year. Hostess for the evening is Mrs. Clifford Dean of Palatine. Members are encouraged to bring friends interested in joining Distaffs so they may learn about Distaffs as well as play Whoopee. Members and anyone interested in attending are asked to call Mrs. Robert Greelees, 358-4908, by this Friday with reservations for themselves and their guests.

Distaffs is a service club for women who donate their time and monies raised through ways and means projects to the Countryside YMCA. Some members teach classes at the Y while others do volunteer office work such as sorting, stapling, addressing and collating the many mailings which the Y sends. The club also organizes the annual Y awards dinner. With monies from an auction and dessert-card parties, Distaffs has purchased a folding machine, an electric stapler and an electric typewriter for the Y office. The group also gives a yearly donation of $250 to the building fund.

Any woman is eligible for membership in Distaffs whether she is a YMCA member or not. Women can obtain more information from the vice president and membership chairman, Mrs. Horst Peppa, at 359-4577.

Martwick Shuffles Office Help

Richard J. Martwick, Cook County school superintendent, has announced a major reshuffling of personnel in his office, including the appointment of three new assistant superintendents.

Gent T. Lubera has been named assistant superintendent for research and statistics. Lubera, a former teacher in Cook County schools, principal at the Arbor View School in Glen Ellyn and superintendent in Iowa and Ohio, has a doctorate degree from the University of Illinois. His predecessor is William Vernon, who resigned his position.

Lloyd W. Lehman, formerly superintendent of the Forest Park Public Schools, has been named assistant superintendent for special education. Lehman, a doctoral candidate at Loyola University, replaces Thomas Fangman, who is now director of special services for Evanston School Dist. 65.

Walter R. Watson, a former principal of Providence-St. Mel High School, has joined the Superintendent's staff as assistant superintendent responsible for the south area of Cook County. Watson will shortly receive his master's degree from De Paul University. His predecessor was Coley Burgess, who resigned.

CAROL CAMP has been named human relations director. She has a Master of Arts degree in urban education and is a doctoral candidate at the University of Chicago. Her predecessor in the county office is William McGee, who has joined Rich Central High School as an assistant principal and district director of human relations.

E. Robert Olson has been named assistant superintendent for school finance. He will be responsible for financial duties within the office of the superintendent, as well as working with school finance administrators in the various districts. Alfred Odegard, former finance director, has retired.

Donald Klein, assistant superintendent in charge of curriculum development, will add to his duties the responsibilities of the north-northwest area.

Leonard A. Albano, assistant superintendent for non-public schools and driver education, has temporarily assumed added responsibilities for the southwest area schools.

Leo E. Hennessy, formerly assistant superintendent for the southwest area, will now be assistant superintendent for liaison with the 27 high schools in Cook County.

Richard Mozier, formerly assistant superintendent in the north-northwest area has now taken on the responsibilities of teacher certification and placement.

The position of Director of Fine Arts has been discontinued. The position was held by Jordan Canzone.

Martwick, who recently completed his first year in office said, "We have appraised the strengths of our staff and have shifted various assistants into positions where their talents may be more fully utilized."

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

We have a strong feeling that not more than a corporal's guard of the thousands of players competing in the Olympiad fund game will have bid and made five diamonds.

The bidding will start with a diamond by South and a spade response by North. South's correct rebid is three diamonds.

We can visualize some cautious Norths passing this; other Norths will try three no-trump on the theory that their kind of diamonds will solidify a diamond suit and that East and West won't be able to run a suit of their own first.

These players will be rudely disillusioned. East will lead a heart and five quick heart tricks will develop.

A three-spade or four-diamond call by North will get South to five diamonds. Then it is up to him to try to make it. If hearts are opened and continued he can ruff; play ace, king and another club and ruff small in dummy. The queen of clubs will drop and he will be home free.

If a trump is opened that same series of clubs plays will win for him, but after a trump lead that is an inferior line.

The best line is simply to win the first trump in his own hand; lead a second trump to dummy's king and take a club finesse. This represents a 50 per cent chance and is better than any other club suit play.

Of course, South will lose a heart and a spade on any line he takes.

Revised Hours In Effect At Osco Stores

Revised pharmacy hours are in effect at many of the Osco Drug stores in the Chicago metropolitan area as a result of a week-long strike by professional pharmacists.

Supervisory personnel who are registered pharmacists and non-union pharmacists are filling the personnel gap left by some 140 striking members of the Professional Pharmacists Association, according to a company spokesman.

The Doctor Says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Would you comment on the difference between soldier's heart disease and effort syndrome compared to angina pectoris caused by atherosclerosis in terms of their symptoms and treatment? I have been treated for four years for coronary heart disease. My blood pressure is normal, cholesterol normal, I don't smoke, or have diabetes. I'm not overweight, or have other evidences of circulatory problems. I'm inclined to think my doctor may be treating me for the wrong thing and perhaps I have soldier's heart disease.

Dear Reader — You must have been doing some reading since not very many people know about soldier's heart disease. Angina Pectoris, of course, is pain in the chest usually caused by atherosclerosis (fatty deposits in the arteries). It is a very common disease in the American population and another manifestation of the same disorder of the heart that causes the common heart attack. The main difference is that the attacks are much shorter in duration and often milder.

Soldier's heart disease is sometimes called neurocirculatory asthenia. Individuals with the problem have symptoms that simulate angina pectoris or heart disease although they have nothing structurally wrong with their heart. These individuals often have sharp pain under the left nipple. They become breathless with minimal amounts of exertion and some complain of skipped beats or palpitations of the heart. Faintness while standing is common. It is also called "effort syndrome" because many of the reactions resemble the feeling a person has after having done an unusual amount of effort.

It was commonly observed in soldiers undergoing physical training and Sir Thomas Lewis, a famous British heart specialist, observed that it occurred in office workers and men with sedentary habits who were then put into a fairly vigorous physical training program. Most heart specialists feel that individuals who have this kind of problem are in poor physical condition and that the proper treatment is a very gradual increase in the level of physical activity.

SINCE A PERSON who is taking medicine for heart disease, such as you are, may have a fairly serious problem, it is very important that the individual doesn't take it upon himself to try to differentiate between these two problems. That's what the doctor is for. If you're wrong and decide you merely have symptoms caused by an inadequate level of physical fitness and embark on an exercise program on your own, you can do yourself a great deal of harm. The doctor will make his decision by careful examination and sometimes by the effects of exercise upon the electrocardiogram taken before, sometimes during, and after the exercise period, in the doctor's office. If an individual has sufficient findings to make a diagnosis of angina pectoris or heart disease without the exercise procedure, the doctor may not wish to subject the patient to this test.

Notice of Award of Contract

VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS
SPECIAL ASSESSMENT No. 181

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Board of Local Improvements of the Village of Arlington Heights, Cook County, Illinois, at a regularly called meeting held on the 14th day of September, 1972, awarded a contract for constructing sidewalks in major thoroughfares in the Village of Arlington Heights, Cook County, Illinois, as is more fully described in the Ordinance passed by the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Arlington Heights on the 17th day of April, 1972, to VALPORRETTA AND TORTI COMPANY.

DATED: Arlington Heights, Illinois, this 14th day of September, 1972.

DAVID PATTERSON
President of the Board of Local Improvements of the Village of Arlington Heights, Cook County, Ill.

Published in Arlington Heights Herald Sept. 20, 1972.

Notice of Public Hearing

NOTICE is hereby given that on October 4, 1972, at the hour of 8:00 P.M. in the Village Hall, 50 Raupp Blvd., Buffalo Grove, Illinois, the Buffalo Grove Plan Commission will hold a Public Hearing to consider (1) amending the Zoning Ordinance of 1961, of the Village of Buffalo Grove, Cook and Lake Counties, Illinois, as amended, and, (2) amending the Subdivision Ordinance of 1968, of the Village of Buffalo Grove, as amended.

The Plan Commission will consider (a) certain revisions to Articles II, III, IX, X, XI, and XII of the Zoning Ordinance and to Articles VI and VIII of the Subdivision Ordinance and (b) the addition of Article X-A to the Zoning Ordinance. Said Article X-A provides for the establishment of Planned Development Districts along with standards and criteria for such districts, procedures for securing approval of preliminary and final plans and restrictions and conditions on the Planned Development.

A copy of the proposed amendments is on file in the office of the Village Clerk and is available for public inspection.

All persons attending the hearing will be given an opportunity to be heard.

Dated at Buffalo Grove, Illinois, this 15th day of September, 1972.

Ordinance No. 828

AN ORDINANCE GRANTING A SPECIAL USE PERMIT TO GREER TECHNICAL INSTITUTE TO ALLOW THE CONSTRUCTION OF A PARKING LOT

WHEREAS, the Plan Commission, sitting as a Zoning Commission, at a public hearing duly held according to law, considered the question of granting a special use permit to Greer Technical Institute to allow the construction of a parking lot on property legally described hereinafter; and

WHEREAS, the Plan Commission has recommended that such a permit be granted; and

WHEREAS, the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Elk Grove Village, after reviewing the recommendations of the Plan Commission, find and believe that the granting of such special use permit is in the best interests of the Village;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED, by the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Elk Grove Village, Counties of Cook and DuPage, Illinois, as follows:

Section 1: That the Zoning Ordinance passed and approved July 8, 1957, known as Ordinance No. 20, is hereby amended by granting a special use permit to Greer Technical Institute, so as to permit the construction of a parking lot on property legally described as follows:

Lots 88, 89, 90 and 91 (except the West 69.10 feet thereof) in Higgins Road Commercial Subdivision, Unit No. 3, being a subdivision in the West half of Section 22, Township 41 North, Range 11, East of the Third Principal Meridian, In Cook County, Illinois, subject to the following restrictions and conditions:

(a) Restrictions:

1. There shall be no storage of material, supplies or equipment on the property.
2. There shall be no parking of vehicles on any easements or within 25 feet of the front lot line.
3. There shall be no inoperable vehicles parked, stored or left on the property.
4. The parking area, in part or in its entirety, shall not be leased nor used by persons or firms other than the business firm, located at 1000 Lee Street.

(b) Conditions:

1. Each parking space shall be not less than 10' x 20' and have access to an aisleway for ingress and egress.
2. Only operable vehicles owned or leased by the business firm or used by employees of that firm shall be allowed to use the parking facility.
3. Construction as outlined below, shall be completed prior to using the property for vehicular parking purposes:

a. Plans, which include the following features shall be submitted to the Village Engineer for review and approval:

(i) Underground storm water drainage system
(ii) Asphalt or concrete surface
(iii) Concrete driveway aprons on public property
(iv) Concrete sidewalk on public property
(v) Landscaped with pervious material on all public property adjacent to the lot
(vi) Wheel stops for each parking space
(vii) Low intensity, non-glare lighting of the lot

b. Construction shall not begin until a permit has been issued by the Village Engineer.

4. This special use permit shall become null and void at such time as the parking facility is not used for any period consisting of ninety consecutive calendar days.

Section 2: That this ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage, approval and publication, according to law.

PASSED and APPROVED this 12th day of September, 1972.

Vote: Ayes 5, Nays 0, Absent 1.

Agencies, Courts Seeking Truth About Drug Pricing

by LEA TONKIN
Third of Three Parts

In the beginning, there were folk remedies. Then people began to look to the witch doctor and the alchemist for their medicinal needs. Soon the land was filled with traveling salesmen hawking Dr. Ayers Cherry Pectoral and other patent tonics.

The establishment medicine men began to resent these fly-by-night operators and to distinguish themselves, they became known as professional doctors and pharmacists. They formed state boards to defend their professional practices.

And the medicine business prospered. But it came to pass that some of the professional pharmacists enjoyed greater success than others by forming chain-store operators.

Unsatisfied with this prosperity, the chain store pharmacists even began telling the people to save money by comparing prescritption drug prices. The professional boards saw that this was bad for non-competitive members. So the boards told the people that advertising of prescription drug prices would endanger their health.

THIS SIMPLE allegory is a capsule report on the battle being fought in behalf of the consumer. The stakes are high: your money or your health.

A final report issued by a Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) task force in 1971 offers a good analysis of the problem. "The present patchwork of state pharmacy laws, regulations and codes of ethics obviously reflects attempts to cope with a variety of pharmacy problems on a piecemeal basis. Whether they are aimed at the protection of the public health or the prevention of competition — fair or unfair — is not clear in all cases."

Pressuring for repeal of laws restricting price disclosure in more than half the states, the Justice Department seconds this analysis. In its recently issued policy statement on the State Restrictions on Advertising of Retail Prescription Drugs, the department notes that a recent decision of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court invalidates the state's statuory restrictions on drug advertising.

The court rejected several of the traditional notions used to support the blackout of drug price information by professional pharmacy boards and associations.

The opinion handed down in the case of Pennsylvania State Board of Pharmacy vs. Pastor offers persuasive comment on the reasonableness of restrictive codes of ethics as effected in Illinois and many other states.

THE FIST argument was that advertising would encourage excessive use of drugs. The Pennsylvania Supreme Court, however, rejected a trial court finding that "the promotion and advertising of dangerous drugs and narcotics would certainly to a degree titillate an aberrant person and create an atmosphere of easy availableness." The Supreme Court stated that the highly regulated nature of the pharmaceutical profession on the state and local level together with the fact that a patient cannot choose his drug purchase, make it "most unlikely that advertising drug prices would have an effect on demand."

The second argument against price advertising was that this practice would encourage "price shopping" and make it difficult for pharmacists to "monitor" the consumption of drugs. The court found that monitoring is not completely effective and that more direct methods are available to protect against the prescription of antagonistic drugs.

The third and final justification offered for price disclosure restrictions was that price advertising could encourage pharmacists to purchase unusually large quantities of drugs to obtain the lowest price. It was argued that this would create the possibility that drugs might stay on the pharmacist's shelf for extended periods of time, causing deterioration. The court noted that the sale of adulterated drugs is prohibited and could subject a pharmacist to criminal liability as well as the loss of his license.

THE COURT opinion quoted from an interim HEW task force report on prescription drugs. "There is an abvious need for patients to be able to determine readily the prices charged by the various pharmacists in their community. This appears to be particularly important in the case of long-term maintenance drugs.

"The task force recognizes the difficulties in making such information easily available," the report continued. "Nevertheless, if the patient is to maintain the right to select a pharmacy, he also has a right to know the prices it charges and to compare these with other prices."

The Justice Department cites the Pennsylvania State Board of Pharmacy vs. Pastor decision as an example to be considered by other states, ". . . It is the Department's view that the existing state legislation or regulations which prohibit or restrict price advertising of prescription drugs may well be adverse to the public interest," the report stated. "Since such restrictions appear to be unnecessary to protection of the public and result in unjustifiable expenditures by consumers, the department feels they should be eliminated."

Citing several price comparison studies in which drug price differentials ranged up to 1200 per cent, the Justice Department report said, "The cost to the public of the lack of price competition is enormous. In 1969, $4 billion was spent for out of hospital prescription drugs." Higher costs are passed on to the public as a result of non-competitive sales, the department said.

"THE POOR AND the elderly especially have a terrible problem in the area of prescription drug prices," according to Lynn Mills, executive director of the Consumer Federation of Illinois. "The Illinois restrictions on the posting or advertising of drug prices make it impossible in many cases to find out the drug price before a prescription is filled."

"We are currently taking a survey on the prices charged for a list of prescription drugs," she continued. "We're finding that in a number of cases, the pharmacists are resentful about giving prices. It's self-protecting and it's ridiculous that pharmacists won't furnish this information because they don't want to be compared with other pharmacies," she said.

A Herald survey of 19 Northwest suburban pharmacies also indicates the difficulty of obtaining price information for prescription drugs. Only eight of the pharmacists volunteered price information on a list on 10 commonly prescribed drugs. Price differentials for the drugs ranged from 147 per cent to 422 per cent for the drugs.

The Illinois Pharmaceutical Association and the American Pharmaceutical Association contend that prominent price disclosure smacks of unprofessional competition. The legal action taken against Osco Drug Co. as a leader in price posting activity in Illinois and several other states, is an example of this attitude.

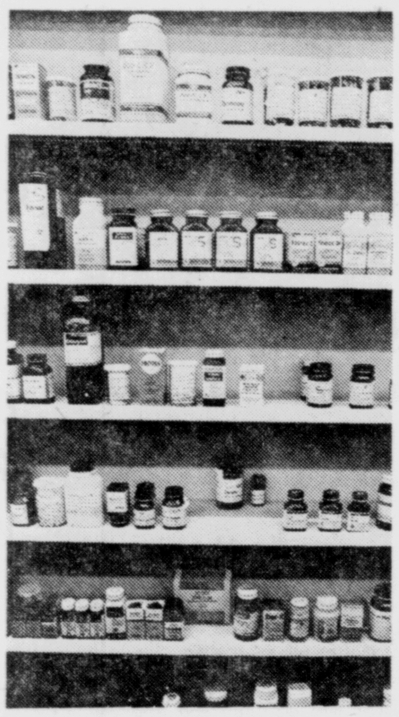

DRUG PRICE competition is only one consideration for a customer in his choice of a pharmacy. Yet it is important to many comsumers. The lack of consumer representatives on stateboards of pharmacy and the prohibition of price disclosure smacks of an anticompetitive practice, the Justice Department contends.

"Competition is our basic national policy," the Justice Department report states. "It has proven to be the most effective spur to business efficiency, innovation and low prices. Prohibitions on drug advertising represent departures from this national economic policy. Such inconsistencies should be countenanced only when clearly justified in terms of public need.

For the present, the Justice Department is leaving this judgment to individual states. But the report wasns, "It is the Department's view that such existing legislation or egulations which prohibit or restrict price advertising of prescription drugs may well be adverse to the public interest." The department urged that such restrictions be eliminated.

The drugs price war, then, is being led by professionals in the pharmaceutical and legal fields. The decisive battle will take place in Illinois when the people finally decide: will drug price shopping endanger their health?

'Ads Contribute To The Problem'

FOR EVERY symptom there's at least one cure on the market. Unfortunately for the consumer, some pharmacists are unwilling to disclose the price they charge in advance. "It's unprofessional," these retailers say.

Drug advertising is contributing to the problem of abuse, maintains the American Pharmaceutical Association.

Richard P. Penna, executive secretary of the APhA Academy of General Practice of Pharmacy, discussed the advertising issue July 17 before the National Commission on Marijuana and Drug Abuse.

"It has been widely alleged that advertising of drugs contributes to the problem of drug abuse in this country," Penna said. "The matter has yet to be settled. Those who deny this allegation consider — as does much of the public — that drug abuse refers only to the use of agents such as marijuana, heroin and amphetamines . . . drug abuse, as we see it, refers to the misuse or overuse of any drug, and in that regard advertising of drugs is, indeed, contributing to the problem of drug abuse."

ADVERTISING OF over-the-counter, or non-prescription, drugs is "out of control and has become a major public health problem," he continued. Erroneous or exaggerated claims as well as a contribution to the drug orientation of our culture are major faults of this practice, he said.

Turning to the advertising of prescription drugs, the APhA spokesman revealed a "serious effort by some to tamper with laws which at least restrict direct sales promotion of these drugs to the public." Physicians widely and heavily promote prescription drugs in addition to a less obvious public promotion, association witnesses said.

Penna cited restrictions on dispensing and advertising of legend (prescription) drugs by the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act. He added, "Prescription drugs will respond to the laws of economics and advertising in the same manner as other items in our system.

"If prescription drugs are advertised, their sales will increase; if they are sampled, the number of prescription orders written for them will increase; if they are promoted to the public — by whatever means — the demand for them and therefore their use (or misuse) will increase."

MISUSE of drugs on the part of many prescribers contributes significantly to the American drug abuse problem, Penna said. Unnecessary financial and physical risk as well as emphasis on the false notion that drugs are the answer to all problems result from this practice, he added.

Penna and Carl Roberts, director of the APhA legal division, discussed the increasing patient demand for drugs as a result of media publicity.

A trend to induce pharmacies to advertise the final cost of prescriptions they dispense was criticized by Penna and Roberts: "Thirty-five states currently prohibit pharmacies from engaging in any advertising of specific prescription drugs," they said. "Justification of these restrictions is that the primary purpose of advertising is to create a demand. APhA similarly opposes prescription drug advertising because it becomes a demand-creating situation.

"THAT DEMAND may be in the form of request for a prescription drug because it costs less than previously. It may take the form of a demand for greater quantity (more than needed for therapy) because of an economic saving. The over-all effect we feel is an added pressure on prescribers by patients to order more drugs. While we would like to think that the decision to prescribe drugs originates with the physician, practically the intent in too many instances originates with the patient."

Recently adopted APhA policy does include price disclosure guidelines in deference to consumer movement demands, however. "Patients have a right to know upon request the cost of pharmaceutical service including the cost of drug products, prior to the providing of such service or drug products by the pharmacist," the guidelines state. But APhA is strongly opposed to posting or advertising of prescription drug prices as well as price disclosures over the telephone.

APhA's Academy of General Practice of Pharmacy is compiling information on possible means of fee disclosure techniques. A sign posted in a pharmacy could invite patients to discuss the fee system, for example, or a letter describing the fee system might be circulated.

WOMEN'S BAREBOW Aggregate Illinois Champion Betty Chalfont draws bead on target at a recent shoot. She hopes to stimulate an archery program in the park district of her home community, Rolling Meadows. "If you don't get the young people interested, it's going to die."

Jim Cook

"I SHOT AN arrow into the air,
It fell to earth, I knew not where."

And even Longfellow would question who would care.

Archery is not considered the national pastime no matter what part of the world the arrow fell, but there are still contemporary William Tells and Robin Hoods saving the sport from the extinction imposed by automatic weapons.

Mrs. Betty Chalfont is one such crusader who is not only actively involved, but hopes to augment a park district program in Rolling Meadows, encouraging those interested in this intriguing but relatively unknown game.

"Archery is not a spectator sport," Betty conceded. "It's a very individual sport that you have to love to enjoy. There are no teams and no contact which probably takes away from its appeal."

She even admitted her initial lack of enthusiasm that was spawned by her husband and son. But Betty is now to the point where practice is demanding equal time with eating and sleeping.

Her personal dedication paid a handsome reward when she claimed the Women's Barebow Aggregate Championship of Illinois two weeks ago. The trophy represents the highest tribute paid by the state to an amateur archer.

By breaking down Betty's lengthy, yet impressive title, we may best understand the sport of archery.

WOMEN'S—This connotation liberates everybody. As Betty explains, "You'll find people of all shapes and sizes at the archery range. Unlike basketball, where height is a great advantage, or football, where it helps to be big, archery is suited for everyone of all ages."

BAREBOW—It means exactly that. The archery industry is sophisticated enough to market many devices to mechanically help the shooter.

A freestyle archer may take advantage of sights, levels, release gadgets, stabilizers, balance weights and clickers that indicate when the arrow has been drawn a certain distance.

Betty only employs her keen eye and coffee nerves in guiding her arrows with magnetic-like precision to the center of the bullseyes.

AGGREGATE—Competition in three divisions. As Betty defined, field shooting is probably the most important and popular form of archery.

It consists of a picturesque layout in a heavily-wooded area. There are a combination of targets, hazards, trees, ravines and uneven ground conditions comparable to a steeplechase race and equally as demanding.

Target shooting is the second phase and encompasses an open, grassy field and colored four-foot-faced targets. You can bet the size of the bullseyes depreciates considerably once the competition begins from 40, 50 and 60 yards away.

With wind conditions the primary variable, Betty calls the target competition the most precise of either of the three divisions.

Broadhead—a return to the field-like environment. This test calls for hunting arrows to be shot from various positions — standing, kneeling and from behind a blind — over the same uneven, unpredictable course.

With victories in the field and target competition and a close second in the broadhead, Betty was an easy winner in the combined standings.

"I don't believe women have ever shot perfect rounds, but some men have done it," she said.

When you reach that type of status in a major amateur sport, the same Olympic fever that grips trackmen, wrestlers, boxers, swimmers, etc. also grips the quiver of the archer.

For the first time since 1924, archery was a gold-medal sport in Munich, but the disappointing coverage kept the competition one of the most well-kept secrets of the 1972 games.

The non-contact nature of the sport assures its safety. "To my knowledge," Betty said, "there have been no accidents in organized archery. In fact, the only accident I can think of came during a hunting season when some guy fell out of a tree stand and landed on his arrows. But that's sheer carelessness."

The four-year veteran believes the future of archery rests in the hands of this country's youth. "If you don't get the young people interested, it's going to die," she predicted.

"The Chicago Park District has a circle of suburban facilities right around the city. There must be 20 or more of them that offer indoor shooting. There are also a number of field clubs in the area that are helping to promote the sport."

Membership in such clubs is relatively inexpensive (15-20 dollars) when compared to, say golf, and far less physical than maybe tennis.

A set of sturdy back muscles is about all that's required to join and within a few days, you'll have a pair of strong wrists to boot.

Betty's mastered a bow that measures roughly 30 pounds when drawn at the normal 28-inch distance and unlike professional bowlers, for example, who tote five or six "other" balls in the trunks of their cars, the consistent archer concentrates on just one.

"If I were to buy a new bow," Betty said, "it would be like starting from scratch — finding the balance and the perfect draw length all over again."

Come to think of it, I never remember Robin Hood ever changing bows either. Sherwood Forest might never have been the same.

Commandos Top Glen Ellyn, 9-6

The Hoffman Estates Commandos bounced back from their season-opening defeat at the hands of the Downers Grove Demons to defeat the highly-touted Glen Ellyn team, 9-6.

The contest was scoreless through the first half. The Commando offense, while outrushing their opponents nearly 2-1, failed four times after having first and goal situations.

The defense, led by David Curtin, Paul Leonard, Paul Childers at linebackers, Dan Steinhoff, Tony Iannotti, Stuart Ironside, Larry Gober and Dan Fosig on the line and John Aseron, Steve Bergant and Scott Danner in the backfield, played stingy ball.

The Commandos got on the scoreboard on a 16-yard pass from Tim Tyrrell to Dan Hayes. Dave Curtin scored the extra point on a dive over left tackle.

It appeared as if the Commandos would score again after Curtin intercepted a Glen Ellyn pass and returned it to the opposition's eight, but a fumble turned the ball over with five minutes remaining.

The defense came to the rescue, however, when Ironside broke through to tackle the punter in the endzone for the two-point safety.

Glen Ellyn finally tallied in the closing seconds on a 50-yard pass play. The Commandos smothered a Glen Ellyn on-side kick as the gun sounded.

Bruins Vs. All-Stars In Benefit Game

The Rolling Meadows Bruins, one of the best 16-inch softball teams in the country, will play a benefit game with the Mount Prospect Bible Church All-Stars on Tuesday, Sept. 26.

Scheduled for 8 p.m. at the Rand Park diamond in Des Plaines, the game will be played to help raise funds for the Awana Youth Program. This nationally affiliated club for boys and girls (ages 8 to 12) is located at the church.

Tickets can be purchased at Roy A. Tosch & Co., 146 W. Dundee Rd., Buffalo Grove or at the 505 W. Golf Rd. The cost is $1.

The Bruins have won nearly 60 games this season and should receive a good test from the all-stars, presently 17-1.

Those wishing more information about the Iwana Youth Program can drop by on Thursday or Friday night at the church. Meetings begin at 7:00.

Locals At 'Green Thumb' College

'Turncoats' May Return To Haunt Harper Golfers

by PAUL LOGAN

The "Green Thumb" school began worrying the rest of the Skyway Conference way before the opening date of the golf season, scheduled for tomorrow, thanks to a couple of "turncoats" from the Herald area.

Lake County College, well known in the suburbs for its fine turf management program, began planting the seeds of possible future frustrations for the SC in general and Harper College in particular when Bob Winter and Chris Marszalek enrolled.

Winter, possibly the best young golfer in the area, is from Buffalo Grove and Marszalek, right up there with Winter, is from Arlington Heights. Together they could have made the Hawks an outstanding team. However, Harper doesn't offer this "green thumb" program.

Roger Bechtold, Harper's new golf coach, not only had this bad news awaiting him, he also found out that another superior player — Chuck Irons — had gone there too. Irons, an Evanston graduate, might have considered Harper had he known that Bechtold, formerly a coach at the North Shore school, was going to be hired.

"Lake County seems to have the depth," said Bechtold, prior to getting his team ready for today's non-conference opener with Joliet at Palatine Hills Golf Club. "We're going to definitely have trouble with them.

"All the kids have been talking about Lake County. Some of them feel they can — on a given day — give them a match, but they feel they (Lancers) will be a little stronger consistently."

Harper will open up the SC campaign at 1:30 against hosting Oakton and Elgin.

Lake County, winner of 26 straight duals and 40 of its last 44, will open at McHenry with Triton. Mayfair will be at Waubonsee.

Bechtold, who takes over for Dave Etienne, former basketball as well as golf coach, welcomes back four fine sophomores from a team that finished second to Lake County last year. They are Frank Fenton of St. Viator, Mike Sutton of Hersey, Steve Leggett of Conant and Scott McMillion of Glenbrook South.

Two other top prospects from the always powerful Glenbrook school are freshmen John Hansen and Scott Pearson.

Other contenders for the starting sports are Don Hahn of Arlington, Steve Anderson of Forest View, Dave Willits of Barrington and Mike Santi of McHenry.

Harper and Lake County shared the first title ever with the latter taking it all in '71. The Hawks also handed the Lancers their last loss. Should the two teams make it through most the season undefeated, they would meet head-to-head on Oct. 11.

The following is a breakdown of the other seven conference contenders besides Harper. Seven dual meets and a conference meet (Oct. 20) later, the winner will be crowned.

LAKE COUNTY 27-0)

Coach Doug Sherman lost his top three performers (two won scholarships) last June, but No. 4 man Rick Larson and No. 5 Brad Marshall are back. Couple this with his fine freshman fivesome and it could mean another banner year.

"I think they're much better," says Sherman of this year's team compared to those of the past three seasons. But he adds, "You never know — golf is funny."

WAUBONSEE (5-2)

"We should have been strong, but we're going to be weak," says Tom Tierney, the Chiefs' head coach along with being the head pro at two Aurora golf courses.

Mark Anderson is the only one out of a potentially half dozen lettermen returning. Two promising freshmen figure to be Tom Wehling and Van Johns.

Despite his "weak" label, Tierney adds "we'll finish second." He considers Lake County in a class by itself with several of the other "weak sisters" battling it out for the No. 2 spot.

TRITON (5-2)

Since Denny Yatsko was clubbing the Warriors last year, Coach Jim McMahon has used the "if you can't beat 'em, join 'em philosophy — Yatsko is now at Triton.

Yatsko, a transfer from Thornton, will join returnees Bob Strong ('71 MVP), Ron Kuczen, Mike Mascenic, Mike Pyne and Terry Carson.

"We'll probably be a little better than last year," says McMahon. "We've always lacked that one player in the low 70s. This year we may have him in Denny."

ELGIN (2-5)

The "odd couple" could be the sensation of the Skyway if this twosome can shoot like Coach Ed Schulz is hoping it can.

John Jorgensen, a freshman "between 35 and 40," according to the Spartans' head coach, and Pat Juby, a young woman who's also a freshman, will be shooting for starting berths. If they make it, this "old man" and young lady could help Elgin this fall, according to Schulz. Ms. Juby was the Elgin city women's champion last summer.

"I guess I'm optimistic," says Schulz, who also welcomes back Jim McBride ('71 MVP) and John Hartrick. "It looks to me like I've got a good nucleus for a fine team."

OAKTON (2-5)

No lettermen are back from a team which tied Elgin for fifth in '71, but that doesn't upset Coach Joe Borowski too much.

"We're better than last year," says Borowski. "We had 15 guys out and had to cut back to 10."

Three of the top swingers are freshmen — John Murnane, Jim Weser and Bill Richardson.

"We were .500 our first year. I think we can shoot possibly for second or third place in the conference," adds Borowski.

MAYFAIR (1-6)

"This should be the strongest team this school has ever had," says Dave Rowlands. However, the Falcons' head coach doesn't think there's much hope of overtaking Lake County.

"There's no question that Lake County is the best team in the state as well as in our conference," says Rowlands. "He's got seven guys who can shoot around 75. Harper, Mayfair and Waubonsee will probably battle for second."

Gary Hajduk, a third-place finisher in the Danville Invite and 27th in last year's Region IV meet, is his top shooter. The two most talented newcomers are from always powerful Glenbrook South High School — Al Peterson, a three-year letterman; and Dirk Heneks, a two-year letterman.

MCHENRY (1-6)

Tim Hidding is the only letterman Coach Bob Franz has back, but what a returnee. Hidding was low medalist in the conference meet last year.

"He's pretty stable and mature," says Franz of his leading candidate. As for the rest of the team, Franz says things are "sort of in a state of flux" right now.

New Hawk Coach Has Learned From Leaders In Sport

by PAUL LOGAN

Following plenty of invaluable experience under some outstanding collegiate and prep coaches, this young but seasoned leader will be guiding the fortunes of Harper Community College this year.

Remember Roger and Clyde? They were part of a team that ravaged the midwest, gunning down 20 foes back in '66 and '67.

Then these marksmen headed to New York. Four more foes fell in something resembling the St. Valentine's Day Massacre, but better known at the National Invitational Basketball Tournament in Madison Square Garden.

Clyde, better known as Walt Frazier, went on to star for the New York Knicks. And Roger, Frazier's not-so-well-known backcourt teammate at Southern Illinois University, went into coaching.

"The thing that impressed me the most about Roger Bechtold was the great exposure he had with three outstanding coaches in such a short period of time," said Athletic Director John Gelch of his new head coach.

Bechtold prepped under Belleville coach Jerry Turner on the varsity for three years, the last earning him all-state honors. His team was upset in the sectioals by Herrin, 51-46. Bechtold was the leading scorer (14) in only the fourth loss in 29 games.

Coach Jack Hartman was the next man to guide young Bechtold at Southern. His senior year he and Clyde helped lead the Salukis to the NIT title. Bechtold returned to S.I.U. for post-graduate work and guided the freshman team. During that time he gathered valuable tips from Hartman, who now coaches at Kansas State University.

Following a brief coaching assignment at downstate high school, Bechtold went to Evanston High. This time the chief influence on his fast-growing career was head coach Jack Burmaster. This very successful prep coach had this to say of his former assistant:

"I suppose I'm going to have to start out with the old cliche that I'm sorry I'm going to have to lose Roger. I think he's one of the fine young coaches.

"He learned well, that is, under Hartman . . . and itreflects in his coaching. If he has a strong point in coaching as far as technique is concerned, he's a strong defensive coach. He learned it well under Hartman.

"He's a young coach and, therefore, seems to get along and communicate well with present day players. He's the kind of guy, I've noticed, the high school guys really like.

"He doesn't come on strong. I sometimes think that the first impression of him is that he's not a strong coach. I think that is not true. The more you'r around Roger, the more he grows on you. And, in my opinion, he'll do a fine job out there."

Bechtold, who takes over for very successful Dave Etienne, had this to say of his new position:

"The reason I took the basketball position is because it will definitely be a challenge to me since it is a fairly new program. And I believe it has a very good future. I think Coach Etienne got the program off to a very good start — the first year ('71-'72) of having a winning season. This is going to help in recruiting.

"I hope to develop a good program. I also hope that each young man has a very rewarding experience. If this occurs, it is definitely going to help in our recruiting. He'll be going back to his former high school and telling everyone about Harper.

"There are different methods of achieving this. I think a coach's obligation is to help the student in any way he can, not only athletically but in educational endeavors, too. Helping him arrange his schedule, getting counseling for him and things of this nature."

Bechtold is a firm believer in the man-to-man defense which he describes as a "non-switching man for man. I hope this is going to create a great deal of pride defensively in that if a player shuts off his man, he can say, 'It was because of my defense that he only scored four or five points.'

"Offensively I like to run when possible. But if they don't have a good shot on the fastbreak, I'd prefer to set up and run some kind of pattern."

Presently, Bechtold is guiding the golf team, which is scheduled to open the Skyway Conference season this afternoon.

"I'm sort of a golf enthusiast," says Harper's newest head man. "I love the game. These players are so sophisticated that it's tough to improve their games, but maybe I can recognize some little things that they're doing wrong. It's completely different than coaching basketball.

"I think we should get good golfers from this area. I'd like to expand the schedule — more tournaments and trips."

Bechtold, who lives with his wife, Jo Ann, in Morton Grove, now begins to become better well known through his coaching exploits.

Clyde would be pleased.

Barone On Teaching Staff At River Trails Center

Nick Barone, Illinois State singles champion from 1967-69 and currently head professional at Chicago's Fullerton Club, has joined the teaching staff of River Trails Tennis Center, Mount Prospect, for the coming indoor season.

Barone, who is moving to Des Plaines from Chicago's northwest side, will handle a major share of River Trails' instructional load and help supervise its Chicago District Tennis Association-sponsored "Excellence" program for boys 16-18.

Area fans may best remember Barone for his three-set inter-club victory last winter over Rockford's Dick Johnson, winner of three major Midwest tournaments that season. He is a product of St. Ignatius High School, Chicago, and Murray (Ky.) State College.

Other River Trails professionals in 1972-73 will include Ken Mackowiak, Chicago, former No. 1 player at Western Illinois University and a successful competitor on the District's summer circuit, and Mary Valiquet, a well-known player-teacher from Des Plaines. The Center's instructional fare will include private, semi-private and group lessons; playing groups, strategy sessions and team teaching.

Sportsman's Notebook

by Bob Holiday

THE OPENING WEEKEND of deer hunting for Wisconsin bow and arrow shooters proved to be something less than terrific, as the stalkers were betrayed by the very foliage that concealed them.

With trees and bushes still heavy with leaves and a warm but heavy wind blowing most of both days, archers were lucky to be able to hear themselves breathe, much less pick up the sound of a feeding deer.

For the uninitiated (new guys) to bow and arrow deer hunting, it is about like you imagined it when you were a kid. You put on carefully camouflaged clothing, because unlike the regular gun season when your chances of getting shot are pretty good, you do not want to be seen with a 45 or 50 pound hunting bow in your hand. If your upper outer garment and hat are properly multi-colored, you can slip around in the heavy underbrush, listening for sounds of deer and looking for signs.

(I can remember when I was a kid, my father and uncle used to talk about having seen deer "sign" on a trail they followed. For years I was looking for browse marks and broken twigs and tracks. Finally they told me what deer sign was and I stopped looking for it, because for all those years I had been trying not to step in it.)

Once you're on the trail of a deer, it's merely a contest to see if you can get within bow range of him before he hears or smells you and takes off at a pace you can't follow. Within range is something around 25 yards. It's stalking in its purest, and most exciting form.

Not many Wisconsin bow hunters were able to connect over the opening weekend, because even when they were able to find sign of a deer, the heavy underbrush revealed them to the sharp-eyed and sharp-eared creatures, which, being nobody's fool, made themselves scarce.

But the weather, while alternately wet and dry was comfortable enough so that when an archer did score a hit, tracking the bleeding animal was relatively easy.

And before you reach for the pen to write a letter of complaint: While it is true that most arrow-shot deer bleed to death, we cannot consider this bloodsport to be anymore "cruel" than shotgun or rifle hunting. It is true that the first shot from a gun can deal immediate death to the animal. Unfortunately that fact is true only when the gun is in the hands of someone competent . . . which is not always. In the hands of a klutz, a gun deals the same kind of lingering death as an arrow.

In addition, an arrow hunter is more determined, and accustomed to tracking a wounded animal. The gunner generally doesn't know as much about tracking, he isn't supposed to have to track a deer. Critics often charge that many wounded deer die a wasted death from an arrow; but if you prowl the woods after a gun hunting season is over, you can see for yourself the huge number of gun-wounded deer that have been left to rot.

And one last defense of the archers . . . I wouldn't go into the woods of Illinois or Wisconsin during the gun seasons without a flack jacket and helmet and then only at gunpoint. Bow and arrow hunters never shoot each other.

AN OUTDOOR WRITER is often provided "things" to "test" and sometimes the manufacturers actually listen to a guy's advice:

Example: Zenith radio has been building their famous Transoceanic for I-don't-know-how-many years and it has bands and bands and more bands. Great for someone, but what I have pleaded for, for years, is a portable radio with AC and DC capability, FM band, AM band, Weather Band and the two Public Service bands. And I'm not willing to pay a minor league fortune for it.

Well, they've come close. Their new Royal D52Y has everything I mentioned except the second PS band. Plus, it's small and light and will retail for $44.95.

Example: Sleeping bags in a recreational vehicle save a lot of bedmaking and unmaking, but when a sleeping bag is rolled up it looks just like a rolled up sleeping bag. With what's-her-name as an assistant advisor we conned Wenzel Company of St. Louis into what turned out to be their new Bed-N-Bolster sleeping bag that has an outer cover that bundles the bag up into a neat, good looking bolster. Voila!

And the Taylor company, among others, have finally responded to the pleas of boaters who want an auxiliary outboard on stern drive boats. The newly devised bracket mounts right on the stern drive unit and lets you rig up to a 10 horsepower outboard in running position. The stern drive can even tilt with the outboard on its bracket. For trolling, or in case of i/o failure, you just wind up the outboard and move out. Brackets are available for OMC, Mercruiser and Chrysler Volvo outdrives at $25 to $30. You can install them yourself.

Take time this weekend to see the Randhurst outdoor show. Hostess Margaret Erwin has arranged for a complete fishing and hunting display that features some of the most magnificently preserved mounted animals you've ever seen, from the Oaklawn Gun Shop. Youngsters will also get a chance to go trout fishing, free; Bob Lang will be there to talk about his championship caliber fishing methods and ideas; I'll be there just to talk and show you a new bass boat that might make you want to start saving your money now for next spring.

If you can spare the time, we'd enjoy meeting you between 2:00 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. Friday. The entire display and program is open daily Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday this week.

Morton, Gaare, Des Plaines Lead

by GENE KIRKHAM

Morton Pontiac, Gaare Oil, Des Plaines Ace Hardware, and Uncle Andy's Cow Palace were five point winners at Rolling Meadows Bowl as the Paddock Classic Traveling League completed its second night of the season.

Dick Kamin's consistent 641 on games of 214, 225, and 202 led Morton Pontiac to its five point win over Hoffman Lanes.

For the second straight week Morton led the team scoring. They fired a 1005 first game and a 2862 team series.

Bob Glaser of Morton rolled a 623 series wit a 238 game to maintain his league-leading average at an evern 220 pace. Bill Smith, of Morton had a 210 game and a 601 series. The Hoffman Lanes team came back with a 1040 third game to win that game and roll the high team game for the night.

Al Haase rolled 192, 216, and 233, for a 641 total to share the individual scoring honors with Kamin. He led his Gaare Oil team to a five point win over PCTL No. 2. After losing the first game to PCTL No. 2 the Gaare Oil bowlers found the range to win the second game 945 to 934 and then rolled a strong 1023 final game for a 2860 team total and the series point.

Al Jordan of Gaare rolled a 626 series with 225 and 222 games included. Ed Lyzsert of PCTL No. 2 was high man for his team with a 225 game and a 601 series.

It was Uncle Andy's Cow Palace over Bank of Rolling Meadows on lanes 33 and 34. Uncle Andy's rolled a 997 first game and a 2847 team series to win their five points. Warren Olson led the scoring with 225, 188, and 213 for a 626 total. Joe Simonis also of Uncle Andy's had 222 and 205 games for a 606 series.

Des Plaines Ace Hardware won five points over PCTL No. 3, winning the second game by only seven pins and the series point by 21.

PCTL No. 3 led by John Giovanelli's 234 game rolled a 970 to win the first game as the Ace Hardware five came back to win the next two games. Giovanelli's 599 series was the high set in this match. Doug Verdonck fired a 243 third game for Des Plaines which gave him the high game for the night.

Showing unusual balance the league standings to date have Morton Pontiac, Gaare Oil, and Des Plaines Ace Hardware, in a tie for the lead with ten points each. Uncle Andy's and PCTL No. 3 follow with seven points apiece. Hoffman Lanes, PCTL No. 2 and Bank of Rolling Meadows each have four points.

Blocked Punt Sinks Hoffman

The Hoffman Estates Raiders were unable to contain the Glen Ellyn Eagles Sunday, 13-6. After an exchange of punts, the Eagles took over on their 47 and moved to the 20. Three series of plays set up a 20-yard touchdown pass, but they missed the extra point.

Jeff Johnson returned the ensuing kickoff 13 yards to the Raider 42. Johnson and Doug Oslance carried for five yards, which set up a five-yard sneak by quarterback Bill Armstrong for the first down.

The raiders then tied the ball game when Armstrong threw a long pass to Don Anderson. The Raiders also missed their extra point.

The Raiders were successful in a crucial goal-line stand just before the half ended, but the Eagles added the clincher when a Raider punt was blocked and recovered at the 13. Five plays later, the Eagles hit paydirt for the 13-6 decision.

Oslance, McElroy, Hedlund, Johnson, Anderson, and McDonald managed to contain the powerful offensive thrusts by the Eagles.

"This beautiful Swiss watch is yours, free, when you switch to Union Heating Oil."

"All you need is a heating oil storage tank with at least a 200-gallon capacity—which is normal—located in the home heating oil delivery area of the Union Oil Company. Then you can get either watch free just for signing up for Union Oil's automatic heating oil delivery for the season.

"Already use Union Heating Oil? Get a friend to switch. I'll give both of you a beautiful Swiss calendar watch, in styles for men or women. That's all you do for the free watch.

"Here's how you save on heating oil bills too, and possibly reduce your overall heating costs. Get an exclusive 'Flame Control' oil burner through our Lease/Purchase plan. Our in-home tests show that the average home cuts fuel consumption by 14%, although one of my customers cut it by 40%, while another person only cut consumption by 3%. Your heating oil savings depend on the condition of your present oil burner as well as the price of the fuel you're using now.

"Call 242-4804 or fill out the coupon. Sign up for our automatic heating oil delivery and the beautiful Swiss watch is yours right now. Free. Offer expires November 10, 1972."

I want the watch.

Arlington Heights Boys Football

Football season exploded into being for the three divisions of the Arlington Heights Boys Football League this past weekend.

The Rams and Lions each won to go into an early first place tie in the Senior League and are set for a showdown next Sunday when they meet at Pioneer Park at 1:00. The Rams pounded the Redskins 26-0 and the Lions beat the 49ers 20-0.

The Vikings and Browns are atop the Varsity League after initial encounters. The Vikings' win was over the Giants 6-0. The Browns hammered the Saints 34-0. In the other Varsity League game, the Steelers and Eagles fought to a 0-0 draw.

The Bears, Cardinals, and Colts won in the Junior League. The Bears romped over the Cowboys 38-0 while the Cardinals were edging the Packers 14-12 and the Colts were beating the Falcons 6-0.

Rams 26 — Redskins 0

The Rams scored in every quarter to drop the Redskins 26-0. Ram quarterback Barry Carlstedt started it off with a pass interception in the first period Jim Braddock swept in for the extra points. Carlstedt scored in the second on a keeper and again in the third on a 69-yard sweep. Jim Braddock went 85 yards on a quarterback keeper in the fourth quarter to wrap up the Ram victory.

Middle guard Dave Horwath recovered two fumbles to lead an excellent Ram defense. Linebacker Pat Scullion intercepted a pass and Mark Henderson made numerous tackles.

Lions 20 — 49ers 0

The Lions, executing beautifully, jolted the 49ers 20-0.

The Lion offense wasted no time crossing the goal line, but the first TD was recalled on a penalty. In the second quarter, Dave Thielemann banged over from four yards out to put the first points on the board. On the opening kickoff of the second half, Gary Adams galloped 70-yards for the second score.

Late in the third quarter, Gary Adams scored again on a 10-yard pass from Tom North. Jeff Smith was outstanding for the Lions at both guard and linebacker.

Halfback Steve Nygard was a stellar offensive performer for the 49ers while the blocking and tackling of Art Klein luminated the 49er effort.

Vikings 6 — Giants 0

Rob Erickson sprinted 55 yards up the middle on the first play from scrimmage to put the only points of the game on the board for the Vikings.

Erickson gained 168 yards in 21 carries for an eight-yard average while Mark Rustemeyer intercepted a pass and made multi-tackles to protect the lead of Coach Art Gollberg's Vikings.

Halfbacks Stan Huffer and Gary Vevang and linemen Kevin Widlick and Brian Furman played outstanding football for the Giants.

Browns 34 — Saints 0

Ricky Kneisel gained 92 yards in scoring four touchdowns as the Browns humbled the Saints 34-0. Mike Williams scored the other touchdown and Jeff Smithern ran for the two sets of extra points.

Tackles Jim Butts and Dave Purkis and linebacker Tim Brannock stood out defensively for the Browns; Butts making 13 unassisted tackles.

Outstanding play by halfback Dan Weber, Rick Sanders, and Brian Cassidy kept the Saints within range most of the game. Pat Driscoll completed three passes to Bob Whisler in the Saints losing effort.

Steelers 0 — Eagles 0

Steeler safety Kent Motzkus made three game saving tackles to lead the Steelers in a 0-0 defensive struggle with the Eagles. In a hard-hitting game highlighted by fumbles, the Eagles fumbled four times; the Steelers twice.

Bill Schell recovered two for the Steelers. Mike Paice, Mike Loch and Chris Bobowski recovered one each.

A solid team effort by the Eagles kept the football game in the center of the field. Neither team could overcome the other's defense.

Bears 38 — Cowboys 0

Coach Dale Roy's Bears unleashed an awesome air attack as they blitzed the Cowboys 38-0. Curt Roy passed to Dan Borkowski for four touchdowns. The other score was set up on a 70-yard pass play from Curt Roy to Tom Zale who was pushed out of bounds on the one-yard line. Zale went over on the next play for the score.

Brett Williams and Tom Zale accounted for the extra points on a pass and three runs.

Jim Moore and Jim Barnes helped keep the Cowboys scoreless with their tackling while Scott Bastable was the key blocker for the Bears.

Cardinals 14 — Packers 12

Coach Ron Hajek's Cardinals beat the Packers 14-12 in a heart-stopper. The Cardinals scored on a 15-yard rollout by Bill Bateson and a pass covering 32 yards from Pat O'Brian to Bill Hajek. Bateson scored the extra points to put the Cardinals out in front 14-0 at halftime.

The Packers came back inspired after intermission to hold theCardinals scoreless in the second half behind determined defensive play by Bob Pfaff, Jay Behn, and Dan Makeever.

Greg Dick ran 18 yards, to score in the third quarter and Dan Makeever bulldozed over in the fourth to bring the Packers within two points of the Cards.

Andy Dickerson intercepted a pass for the Pack to start a drive that ended with a fumble on the Cardinal 20. Miscues provided the margin as the Packersreceive d 150 yards in penalties.

Colts 6 — Falcons 0

Halfback Curt White dashed 11 yards in the first quarter to score the decisive touchdown as the Colts beat the Falcons 6-0.

Fullback Dan Thorpe and tackle Dean Nelson starred for the Colts offensively while a defense lead by End Stan Bugh and Tackle Mike Dace held the Falcons to one first down.

Fullback Tony Ciello, Quarterback Bruce Pokuta, and Halfback Scott Anderson led the Falcon offense, but they couldn't generate a scoring drive. Tackle Scott Meyer and Halfback Mark Ambrosio led the Falcon defense.

The Colt "B" squad consistently gave the Colt "A" team good field position.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

L-Tran Gains On Gals' Field

by GENE KIRKHAM

The Paddock Women's Classic Traveling League, bowling at Thunderbird Lanes, saw two teams sweep seven points as the league completed its second night of bowling.

L-Tran Engineering kept its record clean on games of 867, 848, and 866 for a 2581 season high team series.

The L-Tran girls had three 500 totals in their sweep over Thunderbird Country Club. League leading Lorrie Koch rolled 213, 171, and 188 for a 572 series which brings her average to 189. Toshi Inahara and Isabel Kosi rolled 516 and 512 totals for L-Tran.

Mary Yurs led Thunderbird Country Club with 531 while Dee Kachelmuss added 511.

Hoffman Lanes' Peggy Harris stayed in the battle for high average by leading her team to a seven point win over Franklin-Weber Pontiac. Peggy rolled 568 on games of 180, 206, and 182. Bennie Bartlett came through with 523 to help the Hoffman Lanes cause. Lee Winski's 510 led the scoring for Franklin-Weber in a match in which the Weber Pontiac girls lost the first game by only one pin, 786 to 785.

Morton Pontiac was a five point victor over the co-sponsored Doyles Sport Shop-Des Plaines Lanes team. Consistent bowling such as Ruth Baurhyte's 515, Jan Broderick's 514, and Betty Parkhurst's 501 gave the Morton girls the series point 2442 to 2414 over the Doyle-Des Plaines team.

Winnie Lohse had a 545 total including games of 199, and 203 while Nancy Porcelius rolled a 524 in the losing effort for Doyle-Des Plaines.

Lu Schoenberger led all individual scoring in this second night of bowling. Lu's 589 total which was bowled on games of 214, 207 and 168 enabled her Striking Lanes team to win five points over Arlington Park Towers. The 589 is also the high individual series to date in the Paddock Women's Classic Traveling League.

Donna Lohse and Dona Jean Sander rolled 508 and 505 for the Arlington Park Towers Team.

After two weeks of bowling the standings show L-Tran Engineering with a six-point lead over second place Morton Pontiac. L-Tran has 14 points while Morton has eight. Striking Lanes, Hoffman Lanes, and Doyle's-Des Plaines follow with seven points each. Arlington Park Towers has six points while Franklin-Weber Pontiac has five. Thunderbird Country Club follows with two points.
